Truce Fails To Stem Shooting On Cyprus

Turks Bomb Nicosia Long After Deadline

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Bitter battles raged in and around Nicosia today long after passage of a 10 a.m. EDT cease-fire deadline agreed to by Greek and Turkey. U.N. Secretary Gneral Kurt Waldheim reported a Turkish air raid on Nicosia an hour and 15 minutes after the truce deadline.

Radio reports said Turkish planes hit a Famagusta Hotel, killing at least 20 foreign tourists, and UPI correspondent Michael Keats said in a dispatch from Nicosia that the truce deadline came and went with no sign of any relaxation in the fighting.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he believed the U.S.-negotiated cease-fire agreement on Cyprus "will stick" in spite of reports of gunfire and bombings on the island.

Kissinger told reporters in Washington that before Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco left Athens,"He had some talks with key government leaders and we believe that the arrangements made last night will stick. I believe the substance of the arrangements will hold."

Greek National Guard units, reinforced by troops from 11 Greek planes which slipped into embattled Nicosia during the night, kept up a steady pounding of the corridor, Keats said. Turkish troops were attempting to drive to the capital from the Kyrenia area where they landed reinforcements by air and sea today.

A United Nations command spokesman in Nicosia said no official orders on a cease-fire had been received as yet and that "we will continue doing what we have been trying to do all along, to have the Greek and Turkish communities observe the last cease-fire," he said.

"We will keep on trying."

Waldheim said Maj. Gen. D. Prem Chand of India, commander of the U.N. peace keeping force in Cyprus, and Luis Wechman-Munoz of Mexico, the Secretary General's personal representative in Cyprus, reported that fighting also was going on in other parts of the Mediterranean Island.

At 10 a.m., Keats said Greek artillery units near Nicosia air-

Few Turn Out For Fairfax Town Manager Interviews

By NELS JOHNSON

The Fairfax Town Council, in public session Saturday, interviewed four candidates for town administrator, and said three other contenders will be publicly questioned at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Mayor Frank J. Egger, saying Fairfax is the first city in Marin to interview administrator candidates in open session, expected "throngs of citizens" to attend. Two residents, one an Independent-Journal reporter, were there.

Appearing for hour-long interviews were William L. Stanton Jr., 45, self-employed administrative consultant and a recuriting coordinator for Alameda County; Merwin W. Parker, 39, former administrative assistant for King County budget and program planning in Seattle, Wash.; Douglas Dunlap, 28, assistant city manager of the City of Cypress, Orange County, and H. Duane Smith, 36, city administrator-engineer of the City of Kerman, Fresno County.

Parker, Dunlap and Smith said they had also applied for the post of city manager of San Anselmo; Smith said he had been rejected for the job. Councilmen didn't ask Stanton if he had applied.

Stanton, a native of Pennsylvania, graduated from Occidental College with a bachelor's degree in political science. He served for seven years as administrative assistant and city clerk of the City of Newark, Alameda County, before becoming city administrator of Brentwood, Contra Costa County, in 1964.

He resigned from the Brentwood post last year "on council request following workload disagreement," according to his resume.

Stanton told councilmen that broad experience in municipal affairs is his greatest asset, and said that "listening well" is a key to solving municipal problems.

He described as "desirable" the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's antisecrecy law.

Parker, unemployed and living in Los Angeles, holds a bachelor's degree in geography from the University of Washington. He has worked as associate planner for the Spokane County Planning Commission and as an urban planner and administrator for regional government programs in Seattle. He worked as a budget and program planning executive for regional government in Seattle from 1972 to last May, when his post was eliminated.

Parker said his greatest asset is a "well-rounded background in urban planning and public administration," and said he wanted to administer the affairs of a small town in order to "get my feet back on the ground" after years of working in the bureaucracy of regional governments.

He said he supports a cautions approach to development. "I'm born and raised in Washington. I'm used to green," he said.

Dunlap, a native of Leavenworth, Kan., attended Allan Hancock and Los Angeles Pierce colleges and holds a bachelor's degree in public ad-

Grass Fire Scars Marinwood Hills

A roaring grass fire set by two youngsters blackened half a square mile of hillside and threatened scores of Marinwood and Lucas Valley homes yesterday. The spectacular blaze blanketed Highway 101 with smoke, forcing traffic to a crawl in midafternoon.

The blaze, which started at 3:30 p.m. on the hill above Rubicon Drive, was not finally controlled until midnight; firemen had to start a back-burn and used bulldozers to halt the spread of the wind-whipped fire.

Some 50 men and 20 vehicles from Marinwood, San Rafael, Kentfield, Novato, San Anselmo and Marin County fire departments, plus state division of Forestry air tankers battled the blaze. "Borate bombers" made about 16 drops of fire-retarding chemicals and water on the blazing hills.

At least one Lucas Valley home was saved only because it had a swimming pool, neighbors said. Firemen brought in a portable pump and pumped the pool dry beating back oncoming flames and flying sparks. Hundreds of other homeowners used garden hoses to wet down fences, rooftops and trees.

Marin County Fire Chief Richard Pedroli reported that two boys, ages 10 and 11, were cited for starting the fire by playing with matches in a dry, grassy area.

The 310 acres that burned were almost entirely within the 350-acre open space preserve that the Marinwood Community Service District's homeonwers bonded themselves to buy for $600,000 early in 1973.

A number of youngsters rushed their horses from the hillsides to nearby school yards, protecting them there while their parents fought the fire.

Ironically, a neighborhood argument over grazing may have contributed to the fire. After the open space preserve was approved, several residents called for a halt to the longtime practice of grazing cattle and horses on the steep hillsides, citing flies and danger to youngsters.

At least one livestock raiser wanted to lease the land for grazing, but turned down an offer for year-to-year leasing, saying at least a four-year lease was necessary to justify the expense of repairing fences in the open area.

Had the hillsides been heavily grazed down, there would have been far less grass to burn yesterday, several residents in the Oak Mountain and Mount Lassen street area reported.

WAYNE MORSE
Urinary infection fatal

Ex-Senator Morse Is Dead At 73

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Former Sen. Wayne Morse, one-time "Tiger of the Senate," died today at 8:10 a.m. He was 73.

A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital said Morse, who had been hospitalized since last Wednesday, slipped into a coma at 5:50 a.m. and never regained consciousness.

Morse became ill while campaigning here to regain the seat he lost in 1968 to Bob Packwood, who had cancelled his campaign engagements today because of Morse's illness.

Morse was first thought to have a cold and congestion but tests Thursday diagnosed a urinary tract infection.

His physician had listed him as seriously ill and responding to antibiotics until yesterday when kidney failure put him on the critical list.

In Washington, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., interrupted Senate debate on an appropriations bill to announce Morse's death.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Morse contributed "so much to his state, the nation and, in many ways, to the world."

"He was a man of fierce independence," Mansfield added. "I know of no one who was more independent than Wayne Morse. He was also fearless."

Public Interest Said First In Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sam Garrison, newly installed chief Republican counsel for the House Judiciary Committee, told the panel today it must consider "whether the public interest will be served or disserved by removal of the President from office."

Garrison told reporters as he entered the closed committee session that his 90-minute "balanced summary" of evidence would be "a description of the role of politics with a capital 'P' in the impeachment process."

It is "not a narrow question of what the President did on a particular date or whether there was complicity in a crime," Garrison said, "but whether the public interest will be served or disserved by removal of the President from office."

Garrison was informally installed to represent the Republican side in the inquiry into possible impeachment of President Nixon to replace Albert E. Jenner because Jenner "seems to have forgotten who his client is in this case," according to two committee Republicans.

Some Republicans felt Jenner deserted them by endorsing strong arguments Friday by the chief committee counsel, John M. Doar, for a recommendation for Nixon's impeachment.

Doar said he felt the evidence laid out by the committee staff for the members provided a foundation under which "reasonable men acting reasonably

Judge Clears Reinecke Of One Perjury Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge today dismissed one of two counts of perjury against California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who is accused of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972.

The dismissal left only one count against Reinecke —that he lied when he denied he told then Attorney General John N. Mitchell of a $400,000 offer by ITT to help finance the 1972 Republican convention before the Justice Department settled a major antitrust suit against the corporation.

Reinecke's lawyer, James E. Cox, indicated Reinecke might testify in his own defense.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker dismissed a count based on questioning of Reinecke by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., during the committee's hearings on the nomination of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general.

Cox contended the questioning merely involved Reinecke's "impression" of what Mitchell's knowledge may have been of the offer by ITT to help

Contempt Ruling Appeal Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal appeals court has upheld the contempt conviction of a Los Angeles radio station manager who refused to turn over tapes and letters to the FBI in connection with the Patricia Hearst case.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit affirmed the conviction of Will Lewis, 42, general manager of station KPFK which received documents and tapes from the Symbionese Liberation Army and the Weather Underground. Lewis refused to produce the material before a grand jury.

House Deposit Paid By Board Quietly

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District Board voted 12 days ago to put money down on a $58,000 home for its fire chief after telling a meeting audience to go home because the issue would be discussed another day.

Resident Curry Eckelhoff told the Independent-Journal today that she and others had discovered this weekend that the district board voted to put $1,000 down on the house after adjourning its July 10 meeting.

The controversial purchase is to be discussed again at a meeting Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Tamalpais Community Services District office.

Board president Carl Modell confirmed that the board voted to pay the money after the audience left. He said the board suddenly learned that if it was to keep open the option of buying the house, it had to act July 10. "In view of the fact that the paperwork was going through, we had to do it," he said.

Following adjournment, the board went into closed session to discuss negotiations on firemen's salaries, he said, and then had gone back into open session to vote on the house.

The decision to put down the $1,000 on the house was not announced at the board's meeting last Wednesday.

Board member Jeanne Creemer, who is handling the purchase, said that the $1,000 deposit is nonrefundable if the board backs out of the deal at this point.

The board is considering buying the $58,480 home at 898 Chamberlain Court for Chief Dale N. Bennett rather than granting him a monthly housing allowance as has been the previous practice with district fire chiefs.

Deputy County Counsel Richard Godino said his office would be represented at Wednesday's meeting and said that if the district board had acted as described on July 10, it could be considered deceptive.

Mrs. Eckelhoff said that buying the home would result in a housing allowance higher than she would like to see paid to the chief.

"But if people really want to buy a $60,000 house for him, I don't care," she said. "But they should do it legally."

Reagan Fears Consumer Bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan sees a consumer protection agency being considered in Congress as a threat to American freedoms.

He declared it was "one of the most dangerous things ever proposed," at a news conference Saturday.

Reagan declared the agency would create a whole new layer of bureaucracy.

Such an agency, he said, would be able to get confidential information and trade secrets and possibly publish them.

Reagan characterized both the consumer agency and a federal land planning bill before Congress as a "threat to the freedom of all."

Asked if he was critical of President Nixon's economic policies, Reagan said he believed the budget was too big, but added, "three-fourths or more is dictated by Congress."

"We must have a balanced budget," he said. "We won't cure inflation until we do."

Reagan called for unity among Republicans and said he thought there was a need for those who disagree with the Democrats "to unite under some umbrella."

He said that public opinion polls show that millions of Democrats are, in effect, disenfranchised because they disagree with their leaders.

"I ask: Have we not come to one of those moments in history when it is time for a realignment of political parties?"

Reagan said he thought White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler had used a "harsh term" when he described the impeachment proceedings of the House Judiciary Committee as a "kangaroo court."

But he said "there's been a partisanship evident" in the conduct of the committee.

"I am hopeful Congress would find no impeachable offense," Reagan said. "I have not seen any indication — no evidence" — of an impeachable offense."

Settlements Reached In Several Strikes

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Cement truck drivers climbed back behind the wheels of their rigs today and highway and building construction in the seven-county Chicago area began to roll again for the first time in nine weeks.

Teamsters ratified a new contract late last week with the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Association, ending a nine-week strike which affected more than 200,000 persons. Most drivers returned to their jobs today.

The Los Angeles Department of Water and Power and representatives of four unions reached a tentative accord Saturday. Their five-day-old strike caused scattered power blackouts in the Los Angeles area.

The last of the unions involved in a strike against Kennecott Copper Corp. ratified new contracts yesterday and some of the 1,626 union members in Arizona were back on the job. However, more than 10,000 other copper workers remained on strike against at least five other companies including Phelps Dodge Corp. — the nation's largest copper industry employer.

Talks between striking football players and the National Football League owners all but collapsed yesterday.

Negotiators for the NFL Players Association met with league owners' representatives and a federal mediator at the Labor Department in Washington. Another session was scheduled for today, but mediator James Scearce said negotiators for the owners said they would not attend the session unless the players' association comes up with new proposals.

Thirty Peru, Ind., firemen ramined off their jobs today in defiance of a court order. The men went on strike Saturday demanding a 20 per cent raise. The city said it could not afford such an increase.

Members of local 79 of the Service Employes Union went on strike against the Hazel Park, Mich., racetrack during the weekend and the start of the track's thoroughbred season, scheduled for today, was canceled.

Ribicoff Asks Impeachment Speed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., yesterday called on the House to hasten the impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, saying important legislative matters are being delayed.

Ribicoff, speaking on WNHC radio's "Contact" program, said that among others, his own proposal for national health insurance, is awaiting the vote by the House.

"The most important thing, as far as Watergate, frankly, is that we ought to decide it, one way or another," he said. "The best thing that can happen to this country is to have this decision, one way or another."

Ribicoff said if the House votes a bill of impeachment, he sees little chance of the Senate being able to take up "landmark" legislation now being considered.

Home Buyers Finding Money Scene Bleak

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Realtors are advising would-be homeowners to buy now, before housing prices increase. But high down payments, scarcity of mortgage money and the high price of mortgages when available are putting a damper on home hunters' dreams.

"There is no mortgage money available in the Atlanta area at the present time unless you're a veteran," said John Tarleton, an agent for Kuniansky Real Estate Co. "Buying a home can be done on a loan assumption basis — where the buyer takes over the present mortgage and then gets another mortgage, but the interest rate is exorbitant and it's rare."

Interest rates have climbed to more than 9 per cent in Miami and San Francisco. Mortgages are available in Hartford, Conn., but only if the borrower can come up with a 50 per cent down payment.

While some realtors hope the interest rate on mortgages eventually will drop, those surveyed by UPI in cities across the nation also believe that the purchase price of homes will climb at rates of up to 16 per cent a year by 1975. They advise persons able to come up with the large down payments to buy now — even with the high interest. With the steep increase in housing prices considered, they say, the cost of a home would be cheaper in the long run if purchased now.

The nationwide average interest for loans is about 9 to 9 ¼ per cent, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington. The board says the national average for required down payments on new and existing mortgages is about 27 per cent.

But in San Francisco, according to a spokesman for a realty firm, interest rates have shot to 9 ¾ per cent, payoff periods have dropped from 30 to 25 years and down payment requirements have increased from 20 per cent to 25 per cent.

In Hartford, three of the largest banks are charging record interest rates — one of them 9¾ per cent — and requiring 50 per cent down payments.

A state interest ceiling of 9 ½ per cent recently passed the Illinois Legislature.

A Chicago realtor said the sales volume on homes in the first half of this year was about the same as it was last year.

But in Florida's Dade County — the Miami area — new home sales dropped 21 per cent in the first five months of this year as interest rates climbed to 9.13 per cent, including closing costs paid to the lender, and the required down payment climbed to 20 per cent, according to one mortgage broker.

Brezhnev Displeased By Summit

WARSAW (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, says he is disappointed with the results of last month's summit with President Nixon in Moscow.

"I can tell you that we wanted more and were prepared for more," Brezhnev said yesterday in a speech to the Polish parliament marking the 30th anniversary of the Communist regime in Warsaw.

The summit also has been criticized in the United States for lack of substance. Some Nixon critics charged it was a political maneuver to get the public's attention off the Watergate scandals and impeachment inquiry.

In the Warsaw speech, Brezhnev said he urged complete cessation of underground nuclear tests and the removal from the Mediterranean of all ships carrying nuclear weapons during his talks with Nixon.

"Alas, agreement on this has not been reached," Brezhnev said.

At the summit, Nixon and Brezhnev agreed not to test nuclear weapons above 150 kilotons and to continue negotiations to control the spread of nuclear arms.

"As a result of our talks with President Nixon, the contours of further steps to limit strategic offensive weapons have been shaped," Brezhnev said.

Charges Leveled At Military Mental Homes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon is paying for psychiatric care for servicemen's children at institutions that allegedly torture the young patients, according to a Senate subcommittee staff report.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said his Permanent Investigations Subcommittee begins hearings Tuesday on the charges.

Jackson called the allegations "shocking" and said the Defense Department "must be held accountable."

Pentagon spokesmen said it would be "inappropriate" to comment on Jackson's disclosure. But they acknowledged that officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program for the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS), a medical insurance program for military dependents, had been summoned to testify.

The spokesmen could not say whether military doctors had referred dependent patients to the institutions involved, or whether the parents had sent them and CHAMPUS was merely picking up the bills.

Jackson said two psychiatric institutions, the Green Valley School in Orange City, Fla., and the University Center in Ann Arbor, Mich., would be probed. Without saying specifically that abuse and squalor existed at the two facilities, Jackson said a "preliminary staff investigation" has found conditions such as:

The use of the instruments of torture.

Utter filth and squalor of the facilities inhabited by young children.

Physical abuse including mock burials and the use of chains.

The rampant use of drugs.

Questionable psychiatric treatment including heavy doses of vitamins, questionable use of carbon dioxide in therapy and injections of urine and 'dust' serums.

Isolation of children in solitary confinement.

Lack of supervision and education of children entrusted to the institutions.

Questionable billing techniques to receive government funds.

Talks Asked On Peace In Middle East

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jordan called today for a meeting of the foreign ministers of Jordan, Egypt, and Syria and a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) to coordinate the Arab stand towards Middle East peace negotiations.

A statement issued by Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifai said Jordan would like the meeting to be held "as soon as possible." He said his government had sent invitations to the parties concerned and was awaiting a reply.

Rifai said Jordan's aim was "to insure and develop" the Arab coordination called for in the joint communique issued after King Hussein's talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria last week.

The Jordanian move followed PLO rejection yesterday of the formula for Palestinian representation contained in the Sadat-Hussein communique.

The communique said the PLO was the legitimate representative of the Palestinians, "except those living in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan." The PLO announced after yesterday's Executive Committee meeting it could never accept a formula that split the representation of the Palestinians.

Diplomatic sources said the PLO rejection appeared to torpedo hopes of a reconciliation between Jordan and the Palestinians in time for the projected Arab summit conference in Rabat, Sept. 3.

On the same basis they said there appeared no chance the Palestinians would agree to the new Jordanian proposal for it to meet with the foreign ministers of Jordan, Egypt and Syria.

MANILA (UPI) — Amparo Munoz of Spain today began her year's reign as Miss Universe, a title that brought her $10,000 cash, a $10,000 personal appearance contract and the use of a resort island for a year.

Munoz

The 20-year-old movie actress from Malaga, Spain, said one of the first things she did after besting 64 other contestants for the crown yesterday was to telephone her boyfriend, actor Maximo Gonzalez Malverde.

"He said he was very happy for me but sorry for himself since he will now see less of me," the brown-eyed beauty said.

She also offered prayers for her country and its ailing leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

AMC Talks

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. — prospering in a windfall of small car popularity — enters negotiations with the United Auto Workers this week in sound financial shape, and the UAW will be looking for a fair share of the good times.

The union probably will not try to set any trends in the upcoming contract talks, but it does expect AMC — the smallest of the automakers — to match the pacts worked out last fall with the "Big Three."

"AMC has been making money and it's had a good year," Arthur Shy, administrative assistant to UAW Vice President Ken Bannon, said recently. "Hopefully, the talks will go smoothly and we can get an agreement without a work stoppage."

Red Shelling

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces have driven more than 25,000 refugees from an outlying district in northern South Vietnam with heavy aritllery shelling of civilian areas and abducted hundreds of others into Viet Cong-controlled areas, field officers said today.

Military officers said the Communists Saturday stole 20 large trucks from a South Vietnamese motor pool and carried refugees from the Duc Duc area, 380 miles north of Saigon, in two convoys.

Police Gunned

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen in a cruising sedan sprayed a passing police car with machinegun fire on a rural road north of Belfast early today and wounded the two officers, police said.

In other incidents, an elderly man and woman were hospitalized when a bomb exploded outside a Roman Catholic home in a northern suburb and a Protestant was seriously wounded in the stomach when he stepped out of a Belfast club run by the militant Protestant Ulster Defense Association.

A police spokesman said the gunmen near Ballymena, 30 miles north of Belfast, hit both policemen in the patrol car, which spun out of control and overturned in a ditch.

Oil Talks

KUWAIT (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon left for West Germany today at the end of a nine-day Middle East tour capped by a last-minute discussion of oil prices which Kuwait wants to keep high.

In a brief departure statement, Simon said his talks with Crown Prince and Premier Sheikh Jaber Al-Ahmed and other leaders of the oil-rich sheikhdom were "fruitful, beneficial and frank.

"The purpose of my visit was to have talks with Kuwait officials because the United States has so many interests in this area and there is great scope for cooperation between us," he said.

Franco Improves

MADRID (UPI) — Ailing Generalissimo Francisco Franco is progressing favorably, a medical bulletin, by his physicians said today.

"The favorable development of the clinical treatment of his excellency, the Chief of State, continues in all ways," the bulletin said.

The bulletin continued: "Oral feeding has become normal and his functional recovery has intensified."

Reagan Fears Consumer Bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan sees a consumer protection agency being considered in Congress as a threat to American freedoms.

He declared it was "one of the most dangerous things ever proposed," at a news conference Saturday.

Reagan declared the agency would create a whole new layer of bureaucracy.

Such an agency, he said, would be able to get confidential information and trade secrets and possibly publish them.

Reagan characterized both the consumer agency and a federal land planning bill before Congress as a "threat to the freedom of all."

Asked if he was critical of President Nixon's economic policies, Reagan said he believed the budget was too big, but added, "three-fourths or more is dictated by Congress."

"We must have a balanced budget," he said. "We won't cure inflation until we do."

Reagan called for unity among Republicans and said he thought there was a need for those who disagree with the Democrats "to unite under some umbrella."

He said that public opinion polls show that millions of Democrats are, in effect, disenfranchised because they disagree with their leaders.

"I ask: Have we not come to one of those moments in history when it is time for a realignment of political parties?"

Reagan said he thought White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler had used a "harsh term" when he described the impeachment proceedings of the House Judiciary Committee as a "kangaroo court."

But he said "there's been a partisanship evident" in the conduct of the committee.

"I am hopeful Congress would find no impeachable offense," Reagan said. "I have not seen any indication — no evidence" — of an impeachable offense."

Charges Leveled At Military Mental Homes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon is paying for psychiatric care for servicemen's children at institutions that allegedly torture the young patients, according to a Senate subcommittee staff report.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said his Permanent Investigations Subcommittee begins hearings Tuesday on the charges.

Jackson called the allegations "shocking" and said the Defense Department "must be held accountable."

Pentagon spokesmen said it would be "inappropriate" to comment on Jackson's disclosure. But they acknowledged that officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program for the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS), a medical insurance program for military dependents, had been summoned to testify.

The spokesmen could not say whether military doctors had referred dependent patients to the institutions involved, or whether the parents had sent them and CHAMPUS was merely picking up the bills.

Jackson said two psychiatric institutions, the Green Valley School in Orange City, Fla., and the University Center in Ann Arbor, Mich., would be probed. Without saying specifically that abuse and squalor existed at the two facilities, Jackson said a "preliminary staff investigation" has found conditions such as:

Talks Asked On Peace In Middle East

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Jordan called today for a meeting of the foreign ministers of Jordan, Egypt, and Syria and a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) to coordinate the Arab stand towards Middle East peace negotiations.

A statement issued by Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifai said Jordan would like the meeting to be held "as soon as possible." He said his government had sent invitations to the parties concerned and was awaiting a reply.

Rifai said Jordan's aim was "to insure and develop" the Arab coordination called for in the joint communique issued after King Hussein's talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria last week.

The Jordanian move followed PLO rejection yesterday of the formula for Palestinian representation contained in the Sadat-Hussein communique.

The communique said the PLO was the legitimate representative of the Palestinians, "except those living in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan." The PLO announced after yesterday's Executive Committee meeting it could never accept a formula that split the representation of the Palestinians.

Diplomatic sources said the PLO rejection appeared to torpedo hopes of a reconciliation between Jordan and the Palestinians in time for the projected Arab summit conference in Rabat, Sept. 3.

On the same basis they said there appeared no chance the Palestinians would agree to the new Jordanian proposal for it to meet with the foreign ministers of Jordan, Egypt and Syria.

Doar said he concluded that Nixon decided soon after the Watergate burglary in 1972 on a policy "to cover this up ... and he's been in charge of the cover-up from that day forward."

Following Doar's presentation Friday, Jenner told the committee, "I join with him in all the remarks he has made," and said that "where there is secrecy and concealment, you must draw inferences."

Jenner added: "You don't have — you can't find the man with his hand in the cookie jar when you open the door suddenly, but you can see the pieces of the cookie, the crumbs, perhaps off in the corner of the room, when you suddenly open that door."

After all the arguments are heard, the committee later this week will start debating proposed articles of impeachment.

The House scheduled a vote for today on whether to permit television coverage of the debate.

Jenner, who has riled committee Republicans since shortly after taking the post of GOP counsel, will continue to serve on the legal staff, but as an assistant to Doar, second-ranking committee Republican Robert McClory said.

In a broadcast interview yesterday (ABC'S Issues and Answers), McClory, R-Illinois and Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., said Jenner was not representing the Republicans.

McClory said Jenner "is out of tune with the Republican members, and Mr. Garrison, by I would say unanimous action of the minority members, is being designated as the minority counsel."

The move to dump Jenner came after the Chicago lawyer joined with Doar in recommending several proposed articles of impeachment. "We're moving him out because he's not representative of the Republican members," McClory said.

MORSE

Wis., called Morse "a truly great senator —a man of absolute rock-like integrity."

With Morse when he died were his wife, his sister, Mrs. Carol Cline, and his physician, Dr. Charles Goodwin. Mrs. Morse had been with her husband almost constantly since Friday night.

Wayne Lyman Morse served four terms in the United States Senate, where he established himself as a maverick known for his independence and combativeness.

No one, be he President, fellow senator, or other notable was safe from Morse's wrath if he felt a transgression had been committed.

His illness sidetracked him at a moment when he was making a final effort to return to the Senate where he served for 24 years.

Morse began his political career as a Republican, then angrily left that party in 1952 in a difference with Dwight Eisenhower over a choice of running mate and parts of the GOP platform. He went to the Senate in 1953 as an independent, and later joined the Democrats.

He was among the first GOP leaders to urge Eisenhower to seek the presidency, then refused to support him after Ike won the nomination.

In 1954 he helped elect Richard Neuberger as Oregon's first Democratic senator in 40 years, but by 1958 they were engaged in one of the most bitter congressional feuds on record.

Morse bucked the growing tide for John F. Kennedy in 1960 and ran in a number of primaries as an avowed standin for Adlai Stevenson. However, he failed to win a single contest and dropped his bid after Kennedy beat him in Oregon's presidential primary.

In the 1960s, Morse publicly called President Lyndon B. Johnson "drunk with power."

Morse perhaps was best remembered for his final Senate battle over Vietnam. In 1964 he was one of two senators to vote against the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, the act which gave Congressional authorization to increase American involvement in the Southeast Asian country.

From then until his defeat at the polls, he voted against every measure, including appropriations, which would keep American troops in Vietnam.

He carried on his campaign against the war through the country in speeches and he supported Sen. Eugene McCarthy when the Minnesota Democrat ran for the presidency on an anti-war platform in 1968.

He supported Vice President Hubert Humphrey after Humphrey won the Democratic nomination, however. It was in that same election that Morse's Senate career was ended by a margin of 3,446 votes.

Morse was born at Madison, Wis., Oct. 20, 1900. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin and earned a master's degree there. He also earned a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve.

In 1924 he married Mildred Downie, a fellow student both at high school and college. White teaching at the University of Minnesota he earned his law degree.

Wis., called Morse "a truly great senator —a man of absolute rock-like integrity."

With Morse when he died were his wife, his sister, Mrs. Carol Cline, and his physician, Dr. Charles Goodwin. Mrs. Morse had been with her husband almost constantly since Friday night.

Wayne Lyman Morse served four terms in the United States Senate, where he established himself as a maverick known for his independence and combativeness.

No one, be he President, fellow senator, or other notable was safe from Morse's wrath if he felt a transgression had been committed.

His illness sidetracked him at a moment when he was making a final effort to return to the Senate where he served for 24 years.

Morse began his political career as a Republican, then angrily left that party in 1952 in a difference with Dwight Eisenhower over a choice of running mate and parts of the GOP platform. He went to the Senate in 1953 as an independent, and later joined the Democrats.

He was among the first GOP leaders to urge Eisenhower to seek the presidency, then refused to support him after Ike won the nomination.

In 1954 he helped elect Richard Neuberger as Oregon's first Democratic senator in 40 years, but by 1958 they were engaged in one of the most bitter congressional feuds on record.

Morse bucked the growing tide for John F. Kennedy in 1960 and ran in a number of primaries as an avowed standin for Adlai Stevenson. However, he failed to win a single contest and dropped his bid after Kennedy beat him in Oregon's presidential primary.

In the 1960s, Morse publicly called President Lyndon B. Johnson "drunk with power."

Morse perhaps was best remembered for his final Senate battle over Vietnam. In 1964 he was one of two senators to vote against the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, the act which gave Congressional authorization to increase American involvement in the Southeast Asian country.

From then until his defeat at the polls, he voted against every measure, including appropriations, which would keep American troops in Vietnam.

He carried on his campaign against the war through the country in speeches and he supported Sen. Eugene McCarthy when the Minnesota Democrat ran for the presidency on an anti-war platform in 1968.

He supported Vice President Hubert Humphrey after Humphrey won the Democratic nomination, however. It was in that same election that Morse's Senate career was ended by a margin of 3,446 votes.

Morse was born at Madison, Wis., Oct. 20, 1900. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin and earned a master's degree there. He also earned a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve.

In 1924 he married Mildred Downie, a fellow student both at high school and college. White teaching at the University of Minnesota he earned his law degree.

Expert Says Earthquake Effects Can Be Minimal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nobody can tell when an earthquake will hit but the effects are so predictable that damage should be light, says an expert.

Peter Yanev, a registered civil engineer specializing in structural and earthquake engineering, says there are many things that should be done before, during and after an earthquake that would minimize property damage as well as injury and death.

The Bulgaria-born Yanev has recently put out a book on the subject, "Peace of mind in Earthquake Country," published by Chronicle Books of San Francisco ($9.95 cloth, $4.95 paper).

"Building houses directly on earthquake faults is about the stupidest thing you can do," Yanev said recently in an interview, "but there are numerous houses built deliberately on known faults."

The author says well-known and well-defined faults like the San Andreas and Hayward faults are narrow and that earthquakes along them occur in the same places.

"These areas should be made into parks," he said. "In some places, such as Managua, Nicaragua, the bedrock is so deep each quake may rupture the surface in widely separated places. But where the bedrock is near the surface the movement is in the same place and there should be no building."

Yanev sub-titles his book, "How To Save Your Home and Life," and admits that all the material in the book had been previously available.

"But it had not been put together for the home owner," he said. "You need structural engineering to protect big buildings, but not most homes. They are not that complex."

He gives home owners much advice on bracing walls (plywood works well by supporting laterally as well as vertically) and on caring for the home ahead of time (bolt or strap down water heaters, secure large pieces of furniture that may topple).

Another thing to think about before a quake is earthquake insurance.

"Contrary to popular belief, earthquake insurance is now generally available at a reasonable cost throughout the West," he says. "I pay only $7.50 per year for insurance on the furnishings of my apartment which is near the Oakland-Berkeley line and about one mile from the Hayward Fault."

Yanev admits that the myth that such insurance is not available dies hard.

"The day after the big quake in San Fernando in 1971 everybody rushed out to buy insurance. Naturally the insurance companies were reluctant to sell immediately. They did not know how many aftershocks there would be. So they turned people down. This reinforced the myth," says Yanev.

Yanev's advice on preparation includes keeping available a flashlight, a battery-powered radio, extra batteries, a first-aid kit and a few days' supply of canned food and plastic bottled water.

During a quake the most important thing to remember, he says, is to keep calm. If you are inside a building, stand in a corner or in a doorway or get under a sturdy desk or table.

After a quake, first check for injuries. Then check water and electrical lines for damage. Stay away from beaches and other low-lying areas. And be prepared for aftershocks.

Charles F. Richter, Altadena, Calif., certainly the world's best-known expert on seismology, writes a foreword to the book in which he agrees with Yanev's assessment of earthquake effects.

"Losses of life and property in earthquakes are nevertheless largely unnecessary and preventable," Richter says. " ... Our greatest present earthquake risk consists in the continuance in use of antiquated and now unsafe structures."

Few Have Faith In Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Louis Harris poll showed today that Americans apparently have little confidence in the ability of the administration to solve the nation's economic problems.

A survey based on contacts with 1,512 households said that by a margin of 83 per cent to 14 per cent, those interviewed expressed lack of confidence in the administration's performance on "keeping the economy healthy." In response to another question, 46 per cent said they did not think the government "knows enough about how to prevent a great depression" compared to 35 per cent who said it did.

Mamie Says She Still Misses Ike, Who Died Five Years Ago

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Mamie Doud Eisenhower, living in seclusion on her 190-acre farm here, says she "never got used" to her husband being gone.

The 77-year-old former first lady told the Philadelphia Inquirer in an interview published today that she can not get accustomed to not having Dwight D. Eisenhower around, although it's been five years since his death.

"It used to anger me when people would say, 'You're an Army wife. You must be used to Ike being away,'" Mrs. Eisenhower said. "I never got used to him being gone. He was my husband. He was my whole life."

Interviewed in a second-floor sitting room decorated with family heirlooms, Mrs. Eisenhower said she rarely goes downstairs to the large, glass enclosed back porch overlooking the Civil War Battlefield where she spent so much time with her husband.

"There's too much of him there," she explained. "I don't go down there."

The Eisenhowers took up residence at the farm in 1955 after the President suffered his first heart attack and told her he wanted to "be among the people who are going to be our neighbors." The farm, stocked with some 240 choice grade cattle, has since been declared a national historical site.

"My husband was the star in the heavens," Mrs. Eisenhower said, looking back on their years together. "It's not that I didn't have my own ideas, but in my own era, the man was the head of the household."

She said her favorite monument in Gettysburg is the statue of the President on the grounds of Gettysburg College.

Mercedes-Benz cannot introduce the Diesel passenger car as a new idea. We did that over 38 years ago.

1936: Mercedes-Benz introduces the world's first production Diesel passenger car.

You don't develop a Diesel passenger car overnight. A Diesel is something very particular. Before you introduce one, you'd better know exactly what you're doing.

Mercedes-Benz knows. Because Mercedes-Benz has been consistently developing Diesels longer than anyone else. And Mercedes-Benz alone has sold Diesels in America for over a decade. So when you buy a Mercedes-Benz Diesel from us, you get something no one else can offer. Years of important Diesel experience.

Extraordinary fuel economy

One result of this Diesel experience is fuel economy. In a strictly supervised test conducted independently by Motor Trend magazine, our latest Diesel, the 240D, recorded 24.4 miles per gallon. And that was with an automatic transmission. This test was a combination of actual urban and highway driving—no "economy run" or "proving ground" tests. No other full-sized sedan—foreign or domestic—delivers this kind of mileage.

Another result of this Diesel experience is maintenance economy. While any car needs some routine servicing, with a Mercedes-Benz Diesel you can forget about tune-ups. Diesels need no spark plugs, no points, no distributor, no carburetor. No conventional ignition or carburetion systems—no tune-ups ever. And parts that aren't there can't break down.

Come in and look over a Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel for yourself. It's the most advanced Diesel automobile sold in America. It has interior space and trunk room on a par with the finest domestic luxury cars. A full 5-passenger sedan that's all Mercedes-Benz.

Not just a Diesel, a Mercedes-Benz

Arrange to test drive this unique Mercedes-Benz. Feel its remarkable handling—a product of fully independent suspension. Feel the strength of its disc brakes—4-wheel disc brakes. Feel secure—no manufacturer in the world has a greater commitment to safety than Mercedes-Benz.

Exceptional mileage, maintenance economy and dependability with the bonus of outstanding Mercedes-Benz resale value. Come in to see us. We'll show you the automobile that delivers them all—the unique Mercedes-Benz 240D. Not just a Diesel. A Mercedes-Benz.

LEADING THE PACK

Thirteen-year-old Debbie Stewart of Shasta County, already a seasoned runner, leads the pack, at least temporarily, in Saturday's Tiburon Road Run sponsored by the Marin Athletic Club. Debbie placed as the third woman in the event, which drew 260 runners, and top place was taken by George Stewart of Mill Valley, a soldier stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Expert Says Earthquake Effects Can Be Minimal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nobody can tell when an earthquake will hit but the effects are so predictable that damage should be light, says an expert.

Peter Yanev, a registered civil engineer specializing in structural and earthquake engineering, says there are many things that should be done before, during and after an earthquake that would minimize property damage as well as injury and death.

The Bulgaria-born Yanev has recently put out a book on the subject, "Peace of mind in Earthquake Country," published by Chronicle Books of San Francisco ($9.95 cloth, $4.95 paper).

"Building houses directly on earthquake faults is about the stupidest thing you can do," Yanev said recently in an interview, "but there are numerous houses built deliberately on known faults."

The author says well-known and well-defined faults like the San Andreas and Hayward faults are narrow and that earthquakes along them occur in the same places.

"These areas should be made into parks," he said. "In some places, such as Managua, Nicaragua, the bedrock is so deep each quake may rupture the surface in widely separated places. But where the bedrock is near the surface the movement is in the same place and there should be no building."

Yanev sub-titles his book, "How To Save Your Home and Life," and admits that all the material in the book had been previously available.

"But it had not been put together for the home owner," he said. "You need structural engineering to protect big buildings, but not most homes. They are not that complex."

He gives home owners much advice on bracing walls (plywood works well by supporting laterally as well as vertically) and on caring for the home ahead of time (bolt or strap down water heaters, secure large pieces of furniture that may topple).

Another thing to think about before a quake is earthquake insurance.

"Contrary to popular belief, earthquake insurance is now generally available at a reasonable cost throughout the West," he says. "I pay only $7.50 per year for insurance on the furnishings of my apartment which is near the Oakland-Berkeley line and about one mile from the Hayward Fault."

Yanev admits that the myth that such insurance is not available dies hard.

"The day after the big quake in San Fernando in 1971 everybody rushed out to buy insurance. Naturally the insurance companies were reluctant to sell immediately. They did not know how many aftershocks there would be. So they turned people down. This reinforced the myth," says Yanev.

Yanev's advice on preparation includes keeping available a flashlight, a battery-powered radio, extra batteries, a first-aid kit and a few days' supply of canned food and plastic bottled water.

During a quake the most important thing to remember, he says, is to keep calm. If you are inside a building, stand in a corner or in a doorway or get under a sturdy desk or table.

After a quake, first check for injuries. Then check water and electrical lines for damage. Stay away from beaches and other low-lying areas. And be prepared for aftershocks.

Charles F. Richter, Altadena, Calif., certainly the world's best-known expert on seismology, writes a foreword to the book in which he agrees with Yanev's assessment of earthquake effects.

"Losses of life and property in earthquakes are nevertheless largely unnecessary and preventable," Richter says. " ... Our greatest present earthquake risk consists in the continuance in use of antiquated and now unsafe structures."

Few Have Faith In Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Louis Harris poll showed today that Americans apparently have little confidence in the ability of the administration to solve the nation's economic problems.

A survey based on contacts with 1,512 households said that by a margin of 83 per cent to 14 per cent, those interviewed expressed lack of confidence in the administration's performance on "keeping the economy healthy." In response to another question, 46 per cent said they did not think the government "knows enough about how to prevent a great depression" compared to 35 per cent who said it did.

Mamie Says She Still Misses Ike, Who Died Five Years Ago

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Mamie Doud Eisenhower, living in seclusion on her 190-acre farm here, says she "never got used" to her husband being gone.

The 77-year-old former first lady told the Philadelphia Inquirer in an interview published today that she can not get accustomed to not having Dwight D. Eisenhower around, although it's been five years since his death.

"It used to anger me when people would say, 'You're an Army wife. You must be used to Ike being away,'" Mrs. Eisenhower said. "I never got used to him being gone. He was my husband. He was my whole life."

Interviewed in a second-floor sitting room decorated with family heirlooms, Mrs. Eisenhower said she rarely goes downstairs to the large, glass enclosed back porch overlooking the Civil War Battlefield where she spent so much time with her husband.

"There's too much of him there," she explained. "I don't go down there."

The Eisenhowers took up residence at the farm in 1955 after the President suffered his first heart attack and told her he wanted to "be among the people who are going to be our neighbors." The farm, stocked with some 240 choice grade cattle, has since been declared a national historical site.

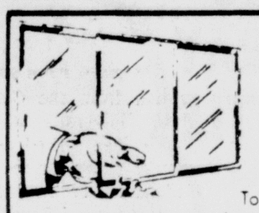

"My husband was the star in the heavens," Mrs. Eisenhower said, looking back on their years together. "It's not that I didn't have my own ideas, but in my own era, the man was the head of the household."

She said her favorite monument in Gettysburg is the statue of the President on the grounds of Gettysburg College.

Mercedes-Benz cannot introduce the Diesel passenger car as a new idea. We did that over 38 years ago.

1936: Mercedes-Benz introduces the world's first production Diesel passenger car.

You don't develop a Diesel passenger car overnight. A Diesel is something very particular. Before you introduce one, you'd better know exactly what you're doing.

Mercedes-Benz knows. Because Mercedes-Benz has been consistently developing Diesels longer than anyone else. And Mercedes-Benz alone has sold Diesels in America for over a decade. So when you buy a Mercedes-Benz Diesel from us, you get something no one else can offer. Years of important Diesel experience.

Extraordinary fuel economy

One result of this Diesel experience is fuel economy. In a strictly supervised test conducted independently by Motor Trend magazine, our latest Diesel, the 240D, recorded 24.4 miles per gallon. And that was with an automatic transmission. This test was a combination of actual urban and highway driving—no "economy run" or "proving ground" tests. No other full-sized sedan—foreign or domestic—delivers this kind of mileage.

Another result of this Diesel experience is maintenance economy. While any car needs some routine servicing, with a Mercedes-Benz Diesel you can forget about tune-ups. Diesels need no spark plugs, no points, no distributor, no carburetor. No conventional ignition or carburetion systems—no tune-ups ever. And parts that aren't there can't break down.

Come in and look over a Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel for yourself. It's the most advanced Diesel automobile sold in America. It has interior space and trunk room on a par with the finest domestic luxury cars. A full 5-passenger sedan that's all Mercedes-Benz.

Not just a Diesel, a Mercedes-Benz

Arrange to test drive this unique Mercedes-Benz. Feel its remarkable handling—a product of fully independent suspension. Feel the strength of its disc brakes—4-wheel disc brakes. Feel secure—no manufacturer in the world has a greater commitment to safety than Mercedes-Benz.

Exceptional mileage, maintenance economy and dependability with the bonus of outstanding Mercedes-Benz resale value. Come in to see us. We'll show you the automobile that delivers them all—the unique Mercedes-Benz 240D. Not just a Diesel. A Mercedes-Benz.

BUCK ROGERS LIVES

Old-Time Toys Are Nostalgic, Costly

By JEFF GREER

Golly, gee whiz, Sandy, there was this ideal retirement present for San Rafael Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori at the antique toy show in Corte Madera on Saturday.

It was a genuine, original, brassplated Dick Tracy badge and a first-edition identification card for Dick Tracy's comic strip Crime-Stoppers Club.

But, gloriosky, Sandy, only Little Orphan Annie's Daddy Warbucks could afford it. The price tag was $75.

Hundreds of grown-ups and a few dozen youngsters browsed and bargained among 40 tables loaded with old toys, badges, dolls and the like in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Buck Rogers, venerable predecessor of "Star Trek," rode again in a Space Patrol tinplated rocket that spat sparks through a gun in its nose.

There was all kinds of 19th and 20th Century toy soldiers including a complete World War I field hospital with bloody wounded on stretchers, for only $25.

There were dozens of Mickey Mouse dolls, model cars of every description, toy trains, ships, you name it. But there didn't seem to be any marbles, and only a couple of slingshots and cork guns.

Bill Hanson, Castro Valley toy trader, explained that "these really are extra stuff, for trade. Most of the best stuff already is gone" because the toy displayers bustled around and swapped among each other for their own collections before the public got in.

He said he specialized in toys deriving from old comic strips.

Dave Harris of Indiana, "The Hoosier Trader," said he's on a West Coast circuit of toy shows, trading and selling every weekend in a different city.

While avid collectors, or simply nostalgic compulsive bargain hunters haggled over their finds, one trader's sign summed it all up.

It read:

"The difference between men and boys

Is the price of their toys."

Women Given Physical Tests By Highway Patrol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol Academy has administered grueling physical performance tests to 176 women who hoped to be among the state's first highway patrolwomen.

A few of the women withdrew because of exhaustion Saturday and 29 flunked. But the rest passed the specially designed test, qualifying for the next series of highway patrol exams.

The women were required to run one-half mile in 5 ½ minutes, do 23 sit-ups at 3-second intervals, run a zigzag course carrying a 70-pound sandbag and take a grip strength test.

The job applicants are part of a two-year experiment to determine whether women can handle highway patrol work. Some 40 successful applicants will begin 16 weeks of intensive training at the academy in October — an experience likened to Army basic training camp.

The women were not given the same physical exam used for men. With the help of a University of California physical education specialist, new tests deemed suitable for women were devised.

Still panting from the test, Karen Greenfield, 27, of Sacramento, said she had proved herself to her two boyfriends, one a highway patrolman, adding: "If you have to do something, you can do it."

Prop. 9 Spending

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The backers of Proposition 9, the successful political reform initiative, far outspent their opponents, according to the latest campaign reports. Proposition 9 backers included six committees and organizations that spent more than $677,900. Committees opposing the measure reported spending $170,250.

Sunoco Found Guilty Of False Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Trade Commission judge ruled today that Sunoco broadcast false and misleading advertising about its gasoline's power and uniqueness.

Harry R. Hinkes, a FTC administrative law judge, said Sunoco should not be forced to run corrective advertising since the energy crisis changed the public's attitude. He said since the commercials were broadcast, people are no longer buying gasoline on the basis of claims for power.

The decision, still subject to possible review and revision by the FTC, cited radio and television commericals used from 1969 until early 1972.

One featured a car pulling three empty railroad cars, with the claim that Sunoco 260 high octane gasoline is blended into all Sunoco brands and results in better performance for all cars.

Hinkes said octane ratings have nothing to do with power, and that Sunoco's high octane is not any different from any other octane.

BUCK ROGERS LIVES

Old-Time Toys Are Nostalgic, Costly

By JEFF GREER

Golly, gee whiz, Sandy, there was this ideal retirement present for San Rafael Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori at the antique toy show in Corte Madera on Saturday.

It was a genuine, original, brass-plated Dick Tracy badge and a first-edition identification card for Dick Tracy's comic strip Crime-Stoppers Club.

But, glorioski, Sandy, only Little Orphan Annie's Daddy Warbucks could afford it. The price tag was $75.

Hundreds of grown-ups and a few dozen youngsters browsed and bargained among 40 tables loaded with old toys, badges, dolls and the like in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Buck Rogers, venerable predecessor of "Star Trek," rode again in a Space Patrol tinplated rocket that spat sparks through a gun in its nose.

There was all kinds of 19th and 20th Century toy soldiers including a complete World War I field hospital with bloody wounded on stretchers, for only $25.

There were dozens of Mickey Mouse dolls, model cars of every description, toy trains, ships, you name it. But there didn't seem to be any marbles, and only a couple of slingshots and cork guns.

Bill Hanson, Castro Valley toy trader, explained that "these really are extra stuff, for trade. Most of the best stuff already is gone" because the toy displayers bustled around and swapped among each other for their own collections before the public got in.

He said he specialized in toys deriving from old comic strips.

Dave Harris of Indiana, "The Hoosier Trader," said he's on a West Coast circuit of toy shows, trading and selling every weekend in a different city.

While avid collectors, or simply nostalgic compulsive bargain hunters haggled over their finds, one trader's sign summed it all up.

It read:

"The difference between men and boys

Is the price of their toys."

Women Given Physical Tests By Highway Patrol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol Academy has administered grueling physical performance tests to 176 women who hoped to be among the state's first highway patrolwomen.

A few of the women withdrew because of exhaustion Saturday and 29 flunked. But the rest passed the specially designed test, qualifying for the next series of highway patrol exams.

The women were required to run one-half mile in 5 ½ minutes, do 23 sit-ups at 3-second intervals, run a zigzag course carrying a 70-pound sandbag and take a grip strength test.

The job applicants are part of a two-year experiment to determine whether women can handle highway patrol work. Some 40 successful applicants will begin 16 weeks of intensive training at the academy in October — an experience likened to Army basic training camp.

The women were not given the same physical exam used for men. With the help of a University of California physical education specialist, new tests deemed suitable for women were devised.

Still panting from the test, Karen Greenfield, 27, of Sacramento, said she had proved herself to her two boyfriends, one a highway patrolman, adding: "If you have to do something, you can do it."

Prop. 9 Spending

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The backers of Proposition 9, the successful political reform initiative, far outspent their opponents, according to the latest campaign reports. Proposition 9 backers included six committees and organizations that spent more than $677,900. Committees opposing the measure reported spending $170,250.

Sunoco Found Guilty Of False Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Trade Commission judge ruled today that Sunoco broadcast false and misleading advertising about its gasoline's power and uniqueness.

Harry R. Hinkes, a FTC administrative law judge, said Sunoco should not be forced to run corrective advertising since the energy crisis changed the public's attitude. He said since the commercials were broadcast, people are no longer buying gasoline on the basis of claims for power.

The decision, still subject to possible review and revision by the FTC, cited radio and television commericals used from 1969 until early 1972.

One featured a car pulling three empty railroad cars, with the claim that Sunoco 260 high octane gasoline is blended into all Sunoco brands and results in better performance for all cars.

Hinkes said octane ratings have nothing to do with power, and that Sunoco's high octane is not any different from any other octane.

Safeway Eliminates A Consumer Gripe

Safeway, the nation's largest food retailer, last week announced a new price policy that wins consumer acclaim and will, hopefully, set an example for others to follow.

Safeway Vice President John Bell promised not to put higher prices on stocks already on the shelves when new price increases occur.

TO THE MARIN consumer, this means that when he pushes his cart through the aisles, he can do so at an unhurried pace without fear that the man with the price-stamping machine will raise the price of canned or package goods before he can round the next aisle. If a product is double-stamped, the customer pays the lower of the two prices. If a price goes down and is so marked, all sales will be at the lower price even if the price jumps back up again.

THE DOUBLE-STAMPING of food items, with the old figure scratched out or overlaid with a new price tag, has been a constant source of irritation. The practice confirms what customers have suspected all along — that stocks bought under old prices were being resold at exorbitant profit. It is a rip-off of the helpless consumer, caught in the worst inflation spiral since 1951.

Safeway's new pledge will have more than just a soothing effect on irritated nerves. In its small way, it will fight inflation by keeping down food costs, the most expensive item in the family budget.

DURING THE last 25 years, individuals have come to depend less and less on their own initiative and more and more on Government to guarantee steady income, health care and security in retirement. That trend may have to be reversed since Government appears helpless in fighting inflation.

If no relief is forthcoming from the top, the campaign against inflation may have to start from the bottom, with nickels and dimes saved at the retail level.

SAFEWAY'S NEW price policy is a step in that direction. We commend the chain for its forthright action in eliminating a major consumer gripe and invite other food chains to follow suit.

Slug Saviors

It may be a bit difficult for Marin gardeners to comprehend, but the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in San Francisco was told that 11 species and subspecies of Western slugs and snails are endangered, and 139 more are threatened.

We confess there is no shortage in our yard. But we aren't so well acquainted with the various species. To us, they are destructive pests to be gotten rid of.

This, however, is a very narrow view. Perhaps tomorrow when it it too late, these vanishing species will be shown to have produced some wonderful, life-saving substance or were capable of performing some presently inconceivable service. We should not arbitrarily and completely wipe out any species of anything.

On the other hand, the common garden slug and snail must be controlled or no garden.

Any Chance Of Preserving Hutchinson Quarry Tower?

Anyone who knew Marin way back as far as yesterday can lament the changes sweeping the county. The most depressing feature of most developments in recent years is their uniform dullness.

The county now faces another big development on San Quentin Peninsula, but for a change has a chance to retain a familiar landmark to give the project a unique flavor.

THE OBJECT of our affection is the leaning tower in the old Hutchinson Quarry — now slated for demolition. Developers unfortunately tend to reserve their affection for quick solutions and profit, and regard such structures merely as inconveniences to be swept away.

We do not doubt the sincerity of the developer's effort to design an attractive commercial and residential project, but challenge the quick assumption that the old tower must go.

THE TOWER has an intrinsic value as is, thus needs no special use in the future project. But surely some imaginative work could make it a valued centerpiece in whatever is built. A revolving restaurant atop the tower is not what we have in mind.

Saving the wooden tower will take strong public pressure. Most people we talked to agreed it should not be torn down. Any takers for the idea?

SAN FRANCISCO officials are torturing good sense in their futile hunt for an alternative to widening the Doyle Drive approach to the Golden Gate Bridge. Things were bad enough when they insisted the roadway's present capacity of four lanes in each direction be cut to three each way.

Now, believe it or not, the city's planning director Alan Jacobs has figured out a scheme that would have four lanes coming into the city and three toward Marin. Seems he figures it's okay to make it easy for us to get into his city, but getting back out is our problem.

The issue still is in the talking stage by officials of the city, Golden Gate Bridge District and federal and state governments. While they talk, of course, motorists using the obsolete road are forced to continue facing extremely hazardous driving conditions.

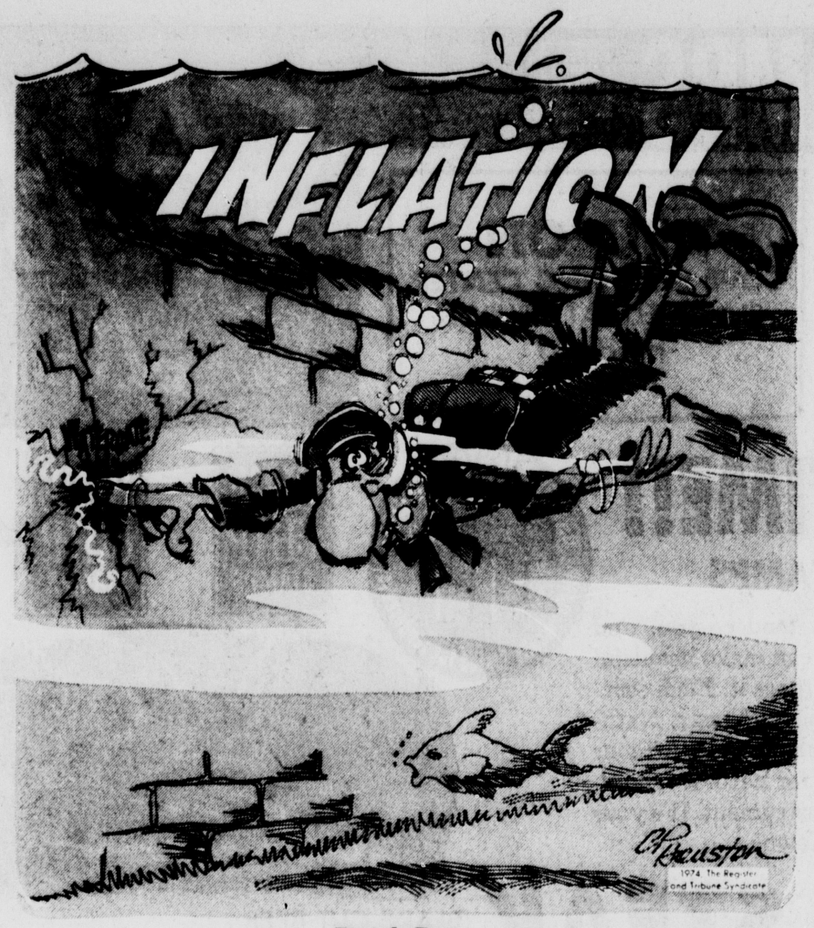

THERE ALWAYS is a local angle. The day before last month's election, for example, we were about to print a denial by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's staff that their boss had endorsed John L. Burton in his congressional race. A telephone call from Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., however, killed the story after the senator explained that he had circulated a letter praising Burton on the Senate floor and gotten Humphrey's signature.

The item is that Abourezk, cited in Time Magazine last week as one of the nation's 200 future leaders, used to live in Mill Valley while working in the early 1960s as a civil engineer for the state. He said he recalled Mill Valley with considerable fondness, even when he was not in Washington.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Careless Cyclists Are Traffic Hazard

When is the Highway Patrol (local police) going to crack down on cyclists who blissfully sail through stop signs? Would you belive that a great majority of these are adults — who probably drive automobiles and who should know better than serving this dangerous example to their children.

As a cyclist, who does obey these traffic signs, and drives an automobile, I have just about had it with these apparently unconcerned citizens on bicycles. One reason I am particularly upset today and what prompted this letter was my husband and I were coming back from a cycle trip in our car and had stopped at a four way stop street. We made our stop and when it was our turn to go suddenly there was a cyclist (adult) who was zooming through the stop sign and suddenly had to brake because she was about to run into our car as we crossed the street. If an accident would have occurred as the result of this, guess who would have been the first to bleat about their road rights?

If there were more bicycle tickets given by police or even better, the cyclists should have to attend driving school for bicyclists as do some drivers of cars who need it — or let us get a few $25 tickets publicized for cyclist who do not believe that traffic laws apply to them and maybe we shall have a safer highway for all users.

Chief's Salary Is Closer To Bottom

Apparently "an association spokesman" for the Belvedere Police Officers Association has been misquoted or misunderstood. In an article appearing last week in your paper, he is quoted as saying, "Right now our chief is the third best paid in the county."

Even considering last year's salary shedules, there are six other chiefs with salaries higher than mine with the currently given 6 per cent raise. One other chief has been given a 13 per cent raise. As best as I am able to determine, my salary is third from the bottom of the list, not third from the top.

Senator Weicker 'Wrong As Usual'

Senator Weicker recently made the statement: "The title of president, the title of secretary of state, the title of senator, mean nothing," the title of America means everything. Wrong as usual Senator Weicker. Presuming that he was talking about the President, the Secretary of State and the Congress of these United States of America, these titles mean:

President of the United States. Without question the most powerful elected executive in the world, the formulator of public policy as embodied in legislation, leader of a major political party boasting of thousands of functionaries and millions of adherents, chief architect of United States foreign policy and spokesman for this nation before the world. Director of one of the most gigantic administrative machines ever created, numbering over two million civilian employees organized into approximately 70 separate jurisdictions and expending billions of dollars annually, commander in chief of more than a million men in uniform, more or less, and ceremonial head of the Government. The lives of 211,000,000 Americans are affected by his administrative edicts.

Secretary of State. Subject always to presidential direction and control, the secretary of state performs tasks falling into four major categories. Gathering information necessary to enable the President, primarily, but also other officials, Congress and even to some extent, press and public, to keep abreast of national policies and international situations throughout the world. Formulates and implements our own foreign policy, represents the United States abroad negotiating with foreign countries, etc.

Senator. In case the junior Senator from Connecticut is not aware of his senatorial function, a senator is a member of the legislature, which, under the Constitution "lays the taxes and makes the laws" which the President administers and the Judiciary interprets. Five hundred forty-five individuals, more or less, the members of Congress, making the laws under which 211,000,000 Americans live and these same members of Congress imposing the tax burden that these same Americans must pay.

President Truman called the 80th Congress, the "worst Congress in the history of this Country." What would he have said of the 93rd Congress?

Investigate Before Destroying Dog

Regarding the front page picture (I-J July 18) of a dog and a dog bitten child. I think more should be known about the circumstances before the beautiful dog is destroyed.

Perhaps the child annoyed the dog, or in some way frightened the dog. Perhaps the dog was tied in the sun and was uncomfortable.

Dogs who are well treated and loved are not vicious.

I'm the mother of two and the grandmother of three — all have had dogs (and cats) all their lives; as I have had. I love both children and dogs but we must play fair. I'm for saving the dog and for further investigation of the circumstances.

Too Much Use Of Official Euphemism

Who won? Who lost? By how much? The "conditions" imposed didn't seem to disturb the developer unduly, and some of them are patently unenforceable . . .

Driving home from a recent hearing of the Marin Plan Commission, pondering these questions, I decided that whatever else, Mother Tongue had taken a beating.

"What is wrong," I asked myself for the millionth time, "with calling a spade a spade, when deciding if it is a fit tool?"

Consider these circumlocutions, all from the hearing:

1) "Use Permit." A legalized exception to a legal requirement - approval of a variation, deviation, evasion, circumvention, possibly tantamount to violation and nullification, of an ordinance or law, or a "Plan" having the color of law. But, we dare not use any of these nasty words - we merely grant a "permit" for a "use."

2) "Private Club." An enterprise conceived and operated for profit by a commercial entity, the "members" having neither a property equity nor any significant voice in the rules and affairs thereof.

3) "Non-Commercial Recreation." (This is the one that set off those Richter 7.7 tremors around the tomb of Dr. Johnson). The Commission solemnly decreed, upon the solemn advice of the tax-paid county legal staff, that a private enterprise operated to sell recreation at a profit, the enjoyment of same being denied the vulgar populace by the altitude of the fees, is "non-commercial." The discussion seemed to me to indicate that if Joe Doakes or Jose Quienes could just walk in and plunk down a five or ten for the enjoyment and use thereof, the enterprise would be a vulgar "commercial" affair, though quite possibly less profitable to its owners.

Honest, I'm not agin either profit or commercial enterprise; even catering to those who feed their egos with illusions of exclusiveness. It's just that I have a tender feeling for Mother Tongue. Why, in the names of Doctor Johnson, Noah Webster, Alexander Craigie, and the myriad others who have striven to keep English an honest tool of communication, can't we call a spade a spade?

Should we stop deluding ourselves and imagining we delude others with official euphemism and gobbledegook we would have taken one solid step toward honesty in government. Who knows? It could spread.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

July 22, 1964

San Anselmo School District voters rejected a $1.2 million building program for the third time.

California State Sen. Edwin J. Regan, D-Weaverville, testifying before a congressional committee, urged Congress to pass a law permitting one house of a state legislature to be apportioned on a basis other than population.

20 YEARS AGO

July 22, 1954

A burh and timber fire raged out of control near the top of King's Mountain above Larkspur.

Kidnap-killer Caryl Chessman's petition for a writ of habeas corpus and stay of execution was turned down by the California Supreme Court.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Impeachment Probe Dragging, Decision May Be Next Year

IMPEACHMENT DECISION SIX MONTHS AWAY? That's what some knowledgeable congressmen — not pro-Nixonites — are now fearing.

This glum forecast rests in part on the long time it is taking the House Judiciary Committee to digest the massive and mixed evidence it has before it.

One recent headline read: "Rodino Says Inquiry Cannot Meet Its Deadline." This means it may be well into September before the Judiciary Committee makes its recommendation to the House and it will take the House considerable time debating whether or not it should impeach.

WHY INTO NEXT YEAR? Two reasons: The Senate would give the President at least a month or more to get ready to stand trial. Second, if the Senate saw it could not complete the trial before Jan. 3, when the congressional term expires, it probably wouldn't begin it since the trial would have to start all over again when the new Congress convened. All substantive measures die at the expiration of the Congress. Obviously, impeachment is a substantive measure.

Neither the public nor the congressmen want to see the impeachment process drag on and on. But that's the outlook.

MEANWHILE, THE WORK OF CONGRESS IS CLOGGED. The President has lost much of his ability to galvanize Congress to act, and by itself Congress is lethargic and preoccupied with impeachment. Appropriations are delayed. Other important legislation, including bills affecting consumer protection, strip mining, oil taxes and energy crisis, may all be neglected in the last-minute rush to adjourn and start campaigning.

NONSMOKERS LIB ON THE MARCH. Smoking continues to increase in the United States, but nonsmokers are enjoying it more! They are getting greater protection all the time through state and local measures. There are increasingly strong laws to free nonsmokers from the discomfort and hazards of smoke others create.

Arizona has led the way in banning smoking in elevators, theaters, libraries, concert halls, musuems. Twelve other states are considering similar legislation. Already some 54 cities, towns or countries in 10 states have banned smoking in a variety of public places.

THE DIPLOMATIC INSIDE. The yearlong differences and irritations within the Atlantic Alliance, including the feeling that the United States was favoring detente with Moscow over the security of Western Europe, were almost entirely dissolved at the Brussels NATO meeting attended by President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger. There is a new climate of trust which didn't exist a few months ago.

WHAT NEXT IN THE MIDDLE EAST? July and August will be crucial in preparing to begin peace negotiations in Geneva in September. Arab and Israeli diplomats will be following each other to Washington during the next six weeks to try to find whether the Geneva meeting will be possible.

No quick overall settlement is in the works. It will come piecemeal — if at all. There are two favorable factors. There is a visible atmosphere of confidence between Egypt and Israel. Also, both sides — Arabs and Israelis — feel they need to find an alternative to renewed war.

A NEW KIND OF U.S.-SOVIET SUMMIT. It would be military, not political. A meeting of U.S. Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grechko is quite likely. Purpose: To try to narrow deep differences on how to get an agreement on offensive nuclear weapons.

Public TV Should Beware Of Politicians Bearing Grants

WASHINGTON — When a politician's whim is powerful enough to delight an entire industry overnight, then that industry had better look out. For unless it pleases him in return, he is likely to catch it again going the other way. If he can delight them, he can disappoint them.

And if he can vote on or sign a bill to provide them government money, they can be sure he is going to find a way to affect how that money is spent. It is as natural as a sugar daddy's interest in what the little lady does after her grasshopper.

MANUFACTURING industries and profitmaking enterprises learn to live comfortably with this fact of economopolitical life. They find ways to recompense, or contribute to, or at least make happy their legislative and executive benefactors.

But when politicians promote a relationship with a nonprofit industry, one which does not produce either hard or consumer goods but ideas, the payoff is a more delicate process. In the end, it has to be in the only product they turn out. That is when we get to political control of ideas, and, in theory, before we get there we ought to stop.

HAVING STATED the theory, we can get on with the practice: Mr. Nixon this week delighted the public television people by approving a plan to give them long-term federal financial support. Only a month ago, he was reported dead set against it.

The word here is that he was persuaded to change by his aides who argued that to cut off federal subsidies would seem to be politically vengeful. After all, it was public TV that ran the Watergate committee hearings verbatim last summer. Convinced that his image did not need to seem any more politically vengeful at this particular time, the President approved the plan. Pro or con, it was a political decision.

THE BILL, drawn up by Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, was sent to Congress as soon as the President switched his position. Whitehead has a deep interest in it, not only out of author's pride but because public TV has effectively paid in advance for this backing.

It did so by caving in to Whitehead-Nixon insistence that principal control of public-TV programming should be decentralized out to local stations, rather than being concentrated in a public network. As it operated earlier, that public network was too liberal for the Nixon ideology. Now, with local stations determining which programs will survive by "bidding" for them, some of the best public-affairs shows are being eliminated. That was the tat; Whitehead felt bound to come up with the implied tit in return.

PUBLIC-TV executives maintain that long-term federal funding is proof against the kind of political interference that would be certain if the project came up for debate over refunding every fiscal year. Not only is the current plan to cover five years, but it is to be handed out through the Treasury Department. And this version is for federal matching funds at the rate of $1 for each $2.50 raised from private sources — up to an eventual maximum of $100 million for fiscal year 1980.

WHEN I LAST wrote on this subject, aggrieved public-TV officials responded as if I opposed noncommercial broadcasting as such. Quite the contrary. I endorse it so strongly that I think it should be fully independent of both commercial sponsors and the federal government.

One such official in Cincinnati, Ohio, pointed to the example of the British Broadcasting Corp.'s editorial freedom, though the BBC operates entirely on government money.

"Surely American ingenuity in protecting public television from undue government influence can match the caliber of British thinking on the subject," he wrote. And surely he was right: American ingenuity already has produced the First Amendment, a paragraph which purposefully neglects to use the word "undue" or anything else conditional.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Safeway Eliminates A Consumer Gripe

Safeway, the nation's largest food retailer, last week announced a new price policy that wins consumer acclaim and will, hopefully, set an example for others to follow.

Safeway Vice President John Bell promised not to put higher prices on stocks already on the shelves when new price increases occur.

TO THE MARIN consumer, this means that when he pushes his cart through the aisles, he can do so at an unhurried pace without fear that the man with the price-stamping machine will raise the price of canned or package goods before he can round the next aisle. If a product is double-stamped, the customer pays the lower of the two prices. If a price goes down and is so marked, all sales will be at the lower price even if the price jumps back up again.

THE DOUBLE-STAMPING of food items, with the old figure scratched out or overlaid with a new price tag, has been a constant source of irritation. The practice confirms what customers have suspected all along — that stocks bought under old prices were being resold at exorbitant profit. It is a rip-off of the helpless consumer, caught in the worst inflation spiral since 1951.

Safeway's new pledge will have more than just a soothing effect on irritated nerves. In its small way, it will fight inflation by keeping down food costs, the most expensive item in the family budget.

DURING THE last 25 years, individuals have come to depend less and less on their own initiative and more and more on Government to guarantee steady income, health care and security in retirement. That trend may have to be reversed since Government appears helpless in fighting inflation.

If no relief is forthcoming from the top, the campaign against inflation may have to start from the bottom, with nickels and dimes saved at the retail level.

SAFEWAY'S NEW price policy is a step in that direction. We commend the chain for its forthright action in eliminating a major consumer gripe and invite other food chains to follow suit.

Slug Saviors

It may be a bit difficult for Marin gardeners to comprehend, but the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in San Francisco was told that 11 species and subspecies of Western slugs and snails are endangered, and 139 more are threatened.

We confess there is no shortage in our yard. But we aren't so well acquainted with the various species. To us, they are destructive pests to be gotten rid of.

This, however, is a very narrow view. Perhaps tomorrow when it it too late, these vanishing species will be shown to have produced some wonderful, life-saving substance or were capable of performing some presently inconceivable service. We should not arbitrarily and completely wipe out any species of anything.

On the other hand, the common garden slug and snail must be controlled or no garden.

Any Chance Of Preserving Hutchinson Quarry Tower?

Anyone who knew Marin way back as far as yesterday can lament the changes sweeping the county. The most depressing feature of most developments in recent years is their uniform dullness.

The county now faces another big development on San Quentin Peninsula, but for a change has a chance to retain a familiar landmark to give the project a unique flavor.

THE OBJECT of our affection is the leaning tower in the old Hutchinson Quarry — now slated for demolition. Developers unfortunately tend to reserve their affection for quick solutions and profit, and regard such structures merely as inconveniences to be swept away.

We do not doubt the sincerity of the developer's effort to design an attractive commercial and residential project, but challenge the quick assumption that the old tower must go.

THE TOWER has an intrinsic value as is, thus needs no special use in the future project. But surely some imaginative work could make it a valued centerpiece in whatever is built. A revolving restaurant atop the tower is not what we have in mind.

Saving the wooden tower will take strong public pressure. Most people we talked to agreed it should not be torn down. Any takers for the idea?

SAN FRANCISCO officials are torturing good sense in their futile hunt for an alternative to widening the Doyle Drive approach to the Golden Gate Bridge. Things were bad enough when they insisted the roadway's present capacity of four lanes in each direction be cut to three each way.

Now, believe it or not, the city's planning director Alan Jacobs has figured out a scheme that would have four lanes coming into the city and three toward Marin. Seems he figures it's okay to make it easy for us to get into his city, but getting back out is our problem.

The issue still is in the talking stage by officials of the city, Golden Gate Bridge District and federal and state governments. While they talk, of course, motorists using the obsolete road are forced to continue facing extremely hazardous driving conditions.

THERE ALWAYS is a local angle. The day before last month's election, for example, we were about to print a denial by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's staff that their boss had endorsed John L. Burton in his congressional race. A telephone call from Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., however, killed the story after the senator explained that he had circulated a letter praising Burton on the Senate floor and gotten Humphrey's signature.

The item is that Abourezk, cited in Time Magazine last week as one of the nation's 200 future leaders, used to live in Mill Valley while working in the early 1960s as a civil engineer for the state. He said he recalled Mill Valley with considerable fondness, even when he was not in Washington.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Careless Cyclists Are Traffic Hazard

When is the Highway Patrol (local police) going to crack down on cyclists who blissfully sail through stop signs? Would you belive that a great majority of these are adults — who probably drive automobiles and who should know better than serving this dangerous example to their children.

As a cyclist, who does obey these traffic signs, and drives an automobile, I have just about had it with these apparently unconcerned citizens on bicycles. One reason I am particularly upset today and what prompted this letter was my husband and I were coming back from a cycle trip in our car and had stopped at a four way stop street. We made our stop and when it was our turn to go suddenly there was a cyclist (adult) who was zooming through the stop sign and suddenly had to brake because she was about to run into our car as we crossed the street. If an accident would have occurred as the result of this, guess who would have been the first to bleat about their road rights?

If there were more bicycle tickets given by police or even better, the cyclists should have to attend driving school for bicyclists as do some drivers of cars who need it — or let us get a few $25 tickets publicized for cyclist who do not believe that traffic laws apply to them and maybe we shall have a safer highway for all users.

Chief's Salary Is Closer To Bottom

Apparently "an association spokesman" for the Belvedere Police Officers Association has been misquoted or misunderstood. In an article appearing last week in your paper, he is quoted as saying, "Right now our chief is the third best paid in the county."

Even considering last year's salary shedules, there are six other chiefs with salaries higher than mine with the currently given 6 per cent raise. One other chief has been given a 13 per cent raise. As best as I am able to determine, my salary is third from the bottom of the list, not third from the top.

Senator Weicker 'Wrong As Usual'

Senator Weicker recently made the statement: "The title of president, the title of secretary of state, the title of senator, mean nothing," the title of America means everything. Wrong as usual Senator Weicker. Presuming that he was talking about the President, the Secretary of State and the Congress of these United States of America, these titles mean:

President of the United States. Without question the most powerful elected executive in the world, the formulator of public policy as embodied in legislation, leader of a major political party boasting of thousands of functionaries and millions of adherents, chief architect of United States foreign policy and spokesman for this nation before the world. Director of one of the most gigantic administrative machines ever created, numbering over two million civilian employees organized into approximately 70 separate jurisdictions and expending billions of dollars annually, commander in chief of more than a million men in uniform, more or less, and ceremonial head of the Government. The lives of 211,000,000 Americans are affected by his administrative edicts.

Secretary of State. Subject always to presidential direction and control, the secretary of state performs tasks falling into four major categories. Gathering information necessary to enable the President, primarily, but also other officials, Congress and even to some extent, press and public, to keep abreast of national policies and international situations throughout the world. Formulates and implements our own foreign policy, represents the United States abroad negotiating with foreign countries, etc.

Senator. In case the junior Senator from Connecticut is not aware of his senatorial function, a senator is a member of the legislature, which, under the Constitution "lays the taxes and makes the laws" which the President administers and the Judiciary interprets. Five hundred forty-five individuals, more or less, the members of Congress, making the laws under which 211,000,000 Americans live and these same members of Congress imposing the tax burden that these same Americans must pay.

President Truman called the 80th Congress, the "worst Congress in the history of this Country." What would he have said of the 93rd Congress?

Investigate Before Destroying Dog

Regarding the front page picture (I-J July 18) of a dog and a dog bitten child. I think more should be known about the circumstances before the beautiful dog is destroyed.

Perhaps the child annoyed the dog, or in some way frightened the dog. Perhaps the dog was tied in the sun and was uncomfortable.

Dogs who are well treated and loved are not vicious.

I'm the mother of two and the grandmother of three — all have had dogs (and cats) all their lives; as I have had. I love both children and dogs but we must play fair. I'm for saving the dog and for further investigation of the circumstances.

Too Much Use Of Official Euphemism

Who won? Who lost? By how much? The "conditions" imposed didn't seem to disturb the developer unduly, and some of them are patently unenforceable . . .

Driving home from a recent hearing of the Marin Plan Commission, pondering these questions, I decided that whatever else, Mother Tongue had taken a beating.

"What is wrong," I asked myself for the millionth time, "with calling a spade a spade, when deciding if it is a fit tool?"

Consider these circumlocutions, all from the hearing:

1) "Use Permit." A legalized exception to a legal requirement - approval of a variation, deviation, evasion, circumvention, possibly tantamount to violation and nullification, of an ordinance or law, or a "Plan" having the color of law. But, we dare not use any of these nasty words - we merely grant a "permit" for a "use."

2) "Private Club." An enterprise conceived and operated for profit by a commercial entity, the "members" having neither a property equity nor any significant voice in the rules and affairs thereof.

3) "Non-Commercial Recreation." (This is the one that set off those Richter 7.7 tremors around the tomb of Dr. Johnson). The Commission solemnly decreed, upon the solemn advice of the tax-paid county legal staff, that a private enterprise operated to sell recreation at a profit, the enjoyment of same being denied the vulgar populace by the altitude of the fees, is "non-commercial." The discussion seemed to me to indicate that if Joe Doakes or Jose Quienes could just walk in and plunk down a five or ten for the enjoyment and use thereof, the enterprise would be a vulgar "commercial" affair, though quite possibly less profitable to its owners.

Honest, I'm not agin either profit or commercial enterprise; even catering to those who feed their egos with illusions of exclusiveness. It's just that I have a tender feeling for Mother Tongue. Why, in the names of Doctor Johnson, Noah Webster, Alexander Craigie, and the myriad others who have striven to keep English an honest tool of communication, can't we call a spade a spade?

Should we stop deluding ourselves and imagining we delude others with official euphemism and gobbledegook we would have taken one solid step toward honesty in government. Who knows? It could spread.

Impeachment Probe Dragging, Decision May Be Next Year

IMPEACHMENT DECISION SIX MONTHS AWAY? That's what some knowledgeable congressmen — not pro-Nixonites — are now fearing.

This glum forecast rests in part on the long time it is taking the House Judiciary Committee to digest the massive and mixed evidence it has before it.

One recent headline read: "Rodino Says Inquiry Cannot Meet Its Deadline." This means it may be well into September before the Judiciary Committee makes its recommendation to the House and it will take the House considerable time debating whether or not it should impeach.

WHY INTO NEXT YEAR? Two reasons: The Senate would give the President at least a month or more to get ready to stand trial. Second, if the Senate saw it could not complete the trial before Jan. 3, when the congressional term expires, it probably wouldn't begin it since the trial would have to start all over again when the new Congress convened. All substantive measures die at the expiration of the Congress. Obviously, impeachment is a substantive measure.

Neither the public nor the congressmen want to see the impeachment process drag on and on. But that's the outlook.

MEANWHILE, THE WORK OF CONGRESS IS CLOGGED. The President has lost much of his ability to galvanize Congress to act, and by itself Congress is lethargic and preoccupied with impeachment. Appropriations are delayed. Other important legislation, including bills affecting consumer protection, strip mining, oil taxes and energy crisis, may all be neglected in the last-minute rush to adjourn and start campaigning.

NONSMOKERS LIB ON THE MARCH. Smoking continues to increase in the United States, but nonsmokers are enjoying it more! They are getting greater protection all the time through state and local measures. There are increasingly strong laws to free nonsmokers from the discomfort and hazards of smoke others create.

Arizona has led the way in banning smoking in elevators, theaters, libraries, concert halls, musuems. Twelve other states are considering similar legislation. Already some 54 cities, towns or countries in 10 states have banned smoking in a variety of public places.

THE DIPLOMATIC INSIDE. The yearlong differences and irritations within the Atlantic Alliance, including the feeling that the United States was favoring detente with Moscow over the security of Western Europe, were almost entirely dissolved at the Brussels NATO meeting attended by President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger. There is a new climate of trust which didn't exist a few months ago.

WHAT NEXT IN THE MIDDLE EAST? July and August will be crucial in preparing to begin peace negotiations in Geneva in September. Arab and Israeli diplomats will be following each other to Washington during the next six weeks to try to find whether the Geneva meeting will be possible.

No quick overall settlement is in the works. It will come piecemeal — if at all. There are two favorable factors. There is a visible atmosphere of confidence between Egypt and Israel. Also, both sides — Arabs and Israelis — feel they need to find an alternative to renewed war.

A NEW KIND OF U.S.-SOVIET SUMMIT. It would be military, not political. A meeting of U.S. Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grechko is quite likely. Purpose: To try to narrow deep differences on how to get an agreement on offensive nuclear weapons.

Public TV Should Beware Of Politicians Bearing Grants

WASHINGTON — When a politician's whim is powerful enough to delight an entire industry overnight, then that industry had better look out. For unless it pleases him in return, he is likely to catch it again going the other way. If he can delight them, he can disappoint them.

And if he can vote on or sign a bill to provide them government money, they can be sure he is going to find a way to affect how that money is spent. It is as natural as a sugar daddy's interest in what the little lady does after her grasshopper.

MANUFACTURING industries and profitmaking enterprises learn to live comfortably with this fact of econo-political life. They find ways to recompense, or contribute to, or at least make happy their legislative and executive benefactors.

But when politicians promote a relationship with a nonprofit industry, one which does not produce either hard or consumer goods but ideas, the payoff is a more delicate process. In the end, it has to be in the only product they turn out. That is when we get to political control of ideas, and, in theory, before we get there we ought to stop.

HAVING STATED the theory, we can get on with the practice: Mr. Nixon this week delighted the public television people by approving a plan to give them long-term federal financial support. Only a month ago, he was reported dead set against it.

The word here is that he was persuaded to change by his aides who argued that to cut off federal subsidies would seem to be politically vengeful. After all, it was public TV that ran the Watergate committee hearings verbatim last summer. Convinced that his image did not need to seem any more politically vengeful at this particular time, the President approved the plan. Pro or con, it was a political decision.

THE BILL, drawn up by Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, was sent to Congress as soon as the President switched his position. Whitehead has a deep interest in it, not only out of author's pride but because public TV has effectively paid in advance for this backing.

It did so by caving in to Whitehead-Nixon insistence that principal control of public-TV programming should be decentralized out to local stations, rather than being concentrated in a public network. As it operated earlier, that public network was too liberal for the Nixon ideology. Now, with local stations determining which programs will survive by "bidding" for them, some of the best public-affairs shows are being eliminated. That was the tat; Whitehead felt bound to come up with the implied tit in return.

PUBLIC-TV executives maintain that long-term federal funding is proof against the kind of political interference that would be certain if the project came up for debate over refunding every fiscal year. Not only is the current plan to cover five years, but it is to be handed out through the Treasury Department. And this version is for federal matching funds at the rate of $1 for each $2.50 raised from private sources — up to an eventual maximum of $100 million for fiscal year 1980.

WHEN I LAST wrote on this subject, aggrieved public-TV officials responded as if I opposed noncommercial broadcasting as such. Quite the contrary. I endorse it so strongly that I think it should be fully independent of both commercial sponsors and the federal government.

One such official in Cincinnati, Ohio, pointed to the example of the British Broadcasting Corp.'s editorial freedom, though the BBC operates entirely on government money.

Can Women Make The Grade For Tam Hi Principalship?

Within the next three months the Tamalpais High School District board will fill a vacancy in the principalship at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley. It was vacated this week with the resignation of Dr. Lawrence E. Sheppard.

James Hanretty, Tam associate principal, will serve as principal until the position is filled, and Supt. Robert D. Torrey has said he will ask district trustees to hire a new principal by Oct. 15.

THE TASK OF recruiting and screening applicants will give district trustees a chance to showcase their new "affirmative action" policy which requires that women and minority members be sought as applicants for available district jobs.

On two previous occasions, trustees have come under fire because of the policy.

In January they filled four "night school dean" positions with white males. And then a few months later they gave Sir Francis Drake High School acting principal Jack Hayes a new contract as principal.

ON BOTH OCCASIONS proponents of affirmative action cried foul. They were upset that women didn't get a better shake in the night school dean issue, and they wanted the principalship opened to all applicants rather than just rehiring the acting principal.

Now trustees have another chance to spotlight their affirmative action efforts.

Torrey said the Tam principalship will be filled from applicants within the district, and there are women who hold an administrative credential and can seek the position.

The policy will require that these women be sought as applicants and — to prevent an instant replay of past hassles — the district board will probably use everything short of intimidation to get the women to apply.

SHOULD THE WOMEN apply, and should one of them be the best qualified person for the job and be selected, it will go a long way toward proving that the district's policy can help balance the inequity that presently exists. Only three of the district's 27 administrative positions are filled by women.

The problem remains that quite often, even though they apply, women are not the best qualified persons for an administrative position because they have little or no previous administrative experience. One can only wonder how trustees can solve that problem.

CORTE MADERA town councilmen gave themselves a 5 per cent pay raise last week, raising their monthly salary from $180 to $189.

One has to wonder if the $9 increase is worth the image councilmen create by raising their own salaries. Especially since the council is still negotiating pay raises for town employees.

Here's New Book To Satisfy U.S. Passion For 'The Best'

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

December, ordinarily, is "best" month, or rather "10-best" month — the appointed season when experts with strong opinions hand down their edicts on what rates.

One learns the 10 "must" movies one should have seen (it's always too late to make it's always too late to make amends). Or the 10 "must" books one should have read — too expensive to catch up here. If you can possibly hold your breath until then, around Christmas you will find out who are the 10 best-dressed men and women in the United States.

Not anybody you're buying those awful last-minute neckties and handkerchiefs for, you can bet on that.

NOW TWO self-appointed experts, Peter Passell and Leonard Ross, have had the nerve — in the middle of summer yet! — to lay down their law on the best-of-practically-everything, from The Best Seven-Letter Word for Scrabble (jonquil) the The Best Passage from the United States Tax Code: "For the purposes of Paragraph (3), an organization described in Paragraph (2) shall be deemed to include an organization described in Section 501 (c) (3)."

No less than 129 limbs of excellence are crawled out upon in "The Best" (Farrar, Straus, & Giroux). At $5.95, this works out to a bargain price of about 4½ cents per superlative.

QUITE PROPERLY Mr. Passell and Mr. Ross leave no clues in the book or on the dust jacket as to their qualifications. Did Leonardo da Vinci or Voltaire bother to submit their credentials to us for total competence? Would it really help if Mr. Passell, for instance, claimed a degree from St. Swithin's College (A. B., cum laude in Vulgate Latin, '61)? Or if Mr. Ross argued in support of pronouncing John Borden of the University of Illinois The Best Living Theoretical Physicist: "I always change the oil filter myself in my Lotus" — which, incidentally, is declared The Best Sports Car under $7,000.

Here, with no false modesty about it, is the staggering ultimate in 20th-Century taste-making.

IF "THE BEST" turned up in a time capsule in 2074, what would posterity think of us in this year of crisis, 1974? In the midst of inflation, dear children of the future, somebody was recommending The Best Way to Play Monopoly. In the midst of an arms race, earnest pacifists-to-come, a couple of chaps were being smart about the Best World War I General. In the midst of famines, a late-rate Renaissance-man team devoted 31 "bests" to eating and drinking.

But "The Best" is more than a game of chic, with a side order of put-ons. As a literary genre, the Passell-Ross experiment qualifies as a kind of mini-social-satire.

COULD ANYBODY improve on The Best Example of Analytic Thought? ("Whenever a person is called upon to make a speech, the first question that enters his mind is 'What shall I talk about?'" —Vice-President Gerald R. Ford.)

Or The Best Explanation for the State of the Indian Economy? ("The kos, a unit of distance in India, may vary from one to three miles in length.")

What does it take to produce a book like "The Best"? One has to be that fairly cool thing — "aware." And since to be aware in 1974 is to have an overdeveloped sense of the ridiculous, Mr. Passell and Mr. Ross are finally satirizing themselves.

"HERE WE all are," they seem to say, "dog-eat-dog competitors in Good Taste. Absolutely determined to know what is The Best Recording of the Messiah and The Best Pizza; The Best Book of the Bible and The Best Tennis Ball. With us, second doesn't count. We want the best of everything. Has any people in history ever combined such a passion for excellence with such triviality?"

What a romanticism lies behind "American materialism"! Could anything be more idealistic? If you could brush with the best toothpaste, keep time with the best watch, polish your floor with the best wax, somehow your life would add up to that thing once known as the "summum bonum" — the highest good, the absolute best of everything.

Brush Fires May Be Arson

CARMEL (AP) — A brush fire that consumed 1,500 acres, and another that errupted several hours later, may have been the work of arsonists who have started nine fires in this area in the past two weeks, authorities say.

Capt. George Alex of the state Division of Forestry said more than 100 firemen controlled a windswept brush fire 15 miles southeast of here last night after it charred 1,500 acres and threatened homes in Carmel Valley.

While firemen brought that blaze under control, another fire was spotted in rough terrain seven miles southwest of King City in Monterey County near Los Padres National Forest.

Can Women Make The Grade For Tam Hi Principalship?

Within the next three months the Tamalpais High School District board will fill a vacancy in the principalship at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley. It was vacated this week with the resignation of Dr. Lawrence E. Sheppard.

James Hanretty, Tam associate principal, will serve as principal until the position is filled, and Supt. Robert D. Torrey has said he will ask district trustees to hire a new principal by Oct. 15.

THE TASK OF recruiting and screening applicants will give district trustees a chance to showcase their new "affirmative action" policy which requires that women and minority members be sought as applicants for available district jobs.

On two previous occasions, trustees have come under fire because of the policy.

In January they filled four "night school dean" positions with white males. And then a few months later they gave Sir Francis Drake High School acting principal Jack Hayes a new contract as principal.

ON BOTH OCCASIONS proponents of affirmative action cried foul. They were upset that women didn't get a better shake in the night school dean issue, and they wanted the principalship opened to all applicants rather than just rehiring the acting principal.

Now trustees have another chance to spotlight their affirmative action efforts.

Torrey said the Tam principalship will be filled from applicants within the district, and there are women who hold an administrative credential and can seek the position.

The policy will require that these women be sought as applicants and — to prevent an instant replay of past hassles — the district board will probably use everything short of intimidation to get the women to apply.

SHOULD THE WOMEN apply, and should one of them be the best qualified person for the job and be selected, it will go a long way toward proving that the district's policy can help balance the inequity that presently exists. Only three of the district's 27 administrative positions are filled by women.

The problem remains that quite often, even though they apply, women are not the best qualified persons for an administrative position because they have little or no previous administrative experience. One can only wonder how trustees can solve that problem.

CORTE MADERA town councilmen gave themselves a 5 per cent pay raise last week, raising their monthly salary from $180 to $189.

One has to wonder if the $9 increase is worth the image councilmen create by raising their own salaries. Especially since the council is still negotiating pay raises for town employees.

Here's New Book To Satisfy U.S. Passion For 'The Best'

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

December, ordinarily, is "best" month, or rather "10-best" month — the appointed season when experts with strong opinions hand down their edicts on what rates.

One learns the 10 "must" movies one should have seen (it's always too late to make it's always too late to make amends). Or the 10 "must" books one should have read — too expensive to catch up here. If you can possibly hold your breath until then, around Christmas you will find out who are the 10 best-dressed men and women in the United States.

Not anybody you're buying those awful last-minute neckties and handkerchiefs for, you can bet on that.

NOW TWO self-appointed experts, Peter Passell and Leonard Ross, have had the nerve — in the middle of summer yet! — to lay down their law on the best-of-practically-everything, from The Best Seven-Letter Word for Scrabble (jonquil) the The Best Passage from the United States Tax Code: "For the purposes of Paragraph (3), an organization described in Paragraph (2) shall be deemed to include an organization described in Section 501 (c) (3)."

No less than 129 limbs of excellence are crawled out upon in "The Best" (Farrar, Straus, & Giroux). At $5.95, this works out to a bargain price of about 4½ cents per superlative.

QUITE PROPERLY Mr. Passell and Mr. Ross leave no clues in the book or on the dust jacket as to their qualifications. Did Leonardo da Vinci or Voltaire bother to submit their credentials to us for total competence? Would it really help if Mr. Passell, for instance, claimed a degree from St. Swithin's College (A. B., cum laude in Vulgate Latin, '61)? Or if Mr. Ross argued in support of pronouncing John Borden of the University of Illinois The Best Living Theoretical Physicist: "I always change the oil filter myself in my Lotus" — which, incidentally, is declared The Best Sports Car under $7,000.

Here, with no false modesty about it, is the staggering ultimate in 20th-Century taste-making.

IF "THE BEST" turned up in a time capsule in 2074, what would posterity think of us in this year of crisis, 1974? In the midst of inflation, dear children of the future, somebody was recommending The Best Way to Play Monopoly. In the midst of an arms race, earnest pacifists-to-come, a couple of chaps were being smart about the Best World War I General. In the midst of famines, a late-rate Renaissance-man team devoted 31 "bests" to eating and drinking.

But "The Best" is more than a game of chic, with a side order of put-ons. As a literary genre, the Passell-Ross experiment qualifies as a kind of mini-social-satire.

COULD ANYBODY improve on The Best Example of Analytic Thought? ("Whenever a person is called upon to make a speech, the first question that enters his mind is 'What shall I talk about?" —Vice-President Gerald R. Ford.)

Or The Best Explanation for the State of the Indian Economy? ("The kos, a unit of distance in India, may vary from one to three miles in length.")

What does it take to produce a book like "The Best"? One has to be that fairly cool thing — "aware." And since to be aware in 1974 is to have an overdeveloped sense of the ridiculous, Mr. Passell and Mr. Ross are finally satirizing themselves.

"HERE WE all are," they seem to say, "dog-eat-dog competitors in Good Taste. Absolutely determined to know what is The Best Recording of the Messiah and The Best Pizza; The Best Book of the Bible and The Best Tennis Ball. With us, second doesn't count. We want the best of everything. Has any people in history ever combined such a passion for excellence with such triviality?"

What a romanticism lies behind "American materialism"! Could anything be more idealistic? If you could brush with the best toothpaste, keep time with the best watch, polish your floor with the best wax, somehow your life would add up to that thing once known as the "summum bonum" — the highest good, the absolute best of everything.

Brush Fires May Be Arson

CARMEL (AP) — A brush fire that consumed 1,500 acres, and another that errupted several hours later, may have been the work of arsonists who have started nine fires in this area in the past two weeks, authorities say.

Capt. George Alex of the state Division of Forestry said more than 100 firemen controlled a windswept brush fire 15 miles southeast of here last night after it charred 1,500 acres and threatened homes in Carmel Valley.

While firemen brought that blaze under control, another fire was spotted in rough terrain seven miles southwest of King City in Monterey County near Los Padres National Forest.

How Welfare Discourages Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's welfare system actually encourages unemployed and low income fathers to desert their families and avoid work, according to a congressional study of welfare programs.

The same is true for aid for dependent children (AFDC) programs which provide financial incentives for women to have a first child.

The report showed that an unemployed, childless woman can almost double her welfare benefits — with an additional $1,159 a year in cash and food payments — by having her first child. The assistance value of additional children was $756 for the second and $628 for the third.

While welfare benefits vary from state to state, the study said, the "average amount potentially available to the fatherless welfare family begins to compare favorably with what people earn."

For example, a non-working welfare mother of three can gross 10 per cent more than the average income for all women workers, and when an unemployed father deserts his family their welfare benefits increase about 33 per cent.

The survey showed that if an unemployed father deserts his family, the wife gained from $1,004 to $1,318 in food and welfare payments depending on the number of children.

The subcommittee's findings disclosed that a non-working welfare mother of three, getting cash, food, and housing benefits, could receive an average of $4,579 equal to about $5,006 in taxable income.

This was more than 30 per cent of what women working full time earned and $398 above the median earnings of all women in 1972.

The study, conducted by the joint fiscal policy subcommittee, was based on 1972 statistics and questionnaires sent to 100 areas around the country. Payments under many programs, including food stamp benefits, have since changed.

A Plan To Raise Postal Revenue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service is starting an advertising campaign aimed at getting people to buy stamps they will never use, thus raising more than $16 million a year.

The gimmick is commemorative stamps.

Because the 10-cent stamp does not meet mail handling expenses, the Postal Service plans to spend $5 million in television and magazine ads trying to convince people to buy commemoratives for stamp collections.

A Postal Service spokesman said the ad campaign is expected to raise the annual revenue from collectors' sales from $30 million to more than $46 million in fiscal 1975.

Where There's Smoke

GOSBERTON, England (UPI) — Jack Edwards was peacefully smoking his pipe at an old person's home when firemen burst through the door. They said his tobacco smoke had filtered into a fire alarm and set off the bells at the fire station.

Tricia Cox Defends Her Father

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tricia Nixon Cox says jealously on the part of "people out of power" is the major reason for her father's Watergate problems and added that those who would impeach the President "won't get away with it."

"I know with God's help and with my father's strong spirit things will turn out all right," Mrs. Cox said in an impromptu interview at a party yesterday for the Nixons by Budget director Roy Ash.

Her eyes blazing, the President's older daughter made several comments on her father's accusers as the President stood in a receiving line with Mrs. Nixon and Mr. and Mrs. Ash only a stone's throw away.

About 140 California business leaders and long-time Nixon supporters mingled nearby under a huge tent in the garden of the house once owned by comedian W. C. Fields.

Tricia said she and her husband, Edward Cox, are "both appalled that some people will go to any lengths to get my father out of office, but they won't get away with it because this is a country of justice."

Water District Citing Illegal Bathers In Lakes

The number of individuals who have been taking illicit dips in Marin's water supply is on the increase.

But for many of the illegal bathers, Marin Municipal Court is the next stop after the cool waters of Alpine and Kent lakes.

Closely paralleling the soaring summer temperatures has been an upsurge in the number of citations issued by the Marin Municipal Water District's six patrolmen.

Since May, when warmer weather arrived, 46 swimmers have been cited, according to figures released by the water district.

"We're trying to get the word out that we're citing people," said James Vande Weg, who is in charge of the partol.

To make Vande Weg's job easier, Marin Municipal has launched a boat patrol of Alpine and Kent lakes, where the majority of the swimmers can be found on hot afternoons.

Most of them plead guilty and are fined $25, though fines this year have varied from $10 to $35.

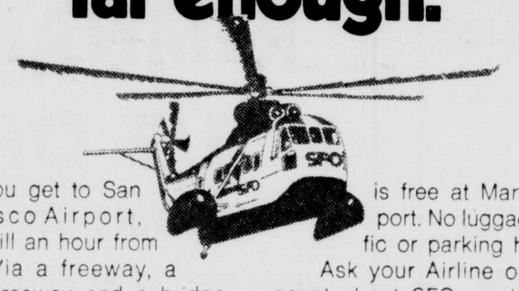

Though cool temperatures recently have kept the lid on reservoir swimming, more people seem to be doing it this year than in the past said Vande Weg.

The number peaked during the three-day heat wave that closed out June, and has declined since. With a high of 97 degrees in San Rafael and the mercury hitting the 100s in the hinterlands, 10 citations were handed out.

The swimmers thus far pose no safety hazard to water consumers, but more serious pollution could occur if the recent upswing in their numbers resumes, said Vande Weg.

MOUNT TAM SUPERVISOR

Woman Ranger Heads Park Domain

By BETTY FROST

The supervisor of Mount Tamalpais State Park is Patricia Wiese, 24, a professional state park ranger.

Miss Wiese is the second woman to achieve ranger status in the state system. The first woman to be accepted into year-long training program began as a trainee in March, 1972, and Miss Wiese began her training in September the sameyear, she explained.

"I am now a Ranger I, the first professional level in the state park system," the ranger said. Her immediate superior is Jerry Hayes, ranger II, who is sector supervisor in charge of three Marin parks, Marin Headlands, Stinson State Beach and Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Much of her training was on-the-job learning, Patricia revealed, and took place at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin County.

"I learned about running a park, working with the maintenance crews working on trails during the storms, working with the campers, conducting nature walks, and being available to help in case of accidents," the woman explained.

HER INSTRUCTION also included intensive first aid training, 200 hours of police training at the Regional Criminal Justice Center at Modesto, and a session at the Asilomar Center for Continuous Learning, where personnel management, camp supervision, safety precautions and nature presentations were covered.

Ranger Wiese is a graduate of California State Polytechnic University at San Luis Obispo, where she majored in biology. During her college years she spent one summer working as a naturalist at Glacier National Park in Montana.

She had lived in Wyoming as a child, where her father was employed as a geologist, and consieers that the opportunities she had to be with him in the field influenced her pleasure in the out of doors. Later the family moved to Orange County and camping excursions to the Pacific Northwest reinforced the future ranger's enjoyment of the open spaces.

What is it like being a woman pioneering in a traditionally all male occupation?

"When I became a trainee, I had to cut eight inches off my hair to comply with the men's standards, that hair must clear the collar," she reminisced. Later this rule was relaxed for women in the state ranger service, who now number 11 permanent women rangers and nine women who are seasonally employed.

Patricia's blonde hair is now shoulder-length under the broad-brimmed ranger hat.

"WHEN I was new trainee I learned how it feels to be a member of the minority. I have actually found that the element of a surprise that I am a woman has worked to my benefit in dealing with such problems as illegal campers. I find that people may be less aggressive with me because I am a woman."

As for other rangers, "with the young rangers it is easy to establish a good rapport, and we share a sense of comraderie. Some of the older men are very helpful and treat me like a daughter, others wonder if I'm going to cause problems, and occasionally there is open conflict.

"I am here to do whatever the job requires. I consider myself qualified and all I ask is to be given an equal chance," she concluded.

In her 4,933-acre domain, Ranger Wiese has three-fold duties. She is an enforcement officer with an imposing badge, an administrator and in charge of what is known in the state park service as "interpretation " This category involves conducting nature hikes, camp fire programs and talks for groups of children.

Ranger Wiese frequently explains the park's points of natural interest to organized youth groups. Appointments must be made at least 10 days in advance. She will also go to Marin schools to talk to the children.

THE RANGER station is "action central" and occasions the supervisor's only complaint with her work, which is "There is more office work than I had realized." Calls come in over the communication system which links the several parks in the sector. The ranger relays information and makes decisions. She also assigns duties to two summer ranger aides.

The most persistent problem is dogs who accompany park visitors. The no-dog rule is primarily for the protection of wild animals, which roam freely in the park. On crowded days an uncontrolled dog can also jeopardize the safety of people in the park, according to the ranger.

The extreme fire danger is of major concern to park personnel.

"After the heavy winter rains we had a bumper crop of grass this season. One was caused by lightning and the others by human carelessness. If the situation gets any worse, we may have to close off part of the mountain."

With all of the problems and responsibilities, Patricia Wiese still says, "It's a challenging job and I love it. I never wanted to use my scientific background in the laboratory."

MR. AND MRS. Harold Oliva were honored at the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club Recreation Center on July 13 when members of the Christian Church of San Rafael, family members and members of the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club held a surprise party for them. They are shown looking over some of the cards they received on their 50th anniversary, Wednesday.

Novato Couple Celebrates 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oliva of Novato celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday. They were married at Sts. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco.

However, the main celebration was on July 13, when fellow members of the Christian Church of San Rafael; their four children; and members of the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club, where they live; held a surprise party for the couple. The party was held in the recreation club at the Marin Valley Mobile Country Club.

Edith Gomes and Harold Oliva were both on a vacation in 1924 when they met in Guerneville, and two weeks later they were married.

"Everyone said it wouldn't last a year. We're from old-time families and feel that marriage is till death do you part," she said. She is from a family of nine, and Oliva is from a family of four.

Mrs. Oliva was born in Centerville, now part of Fremont and, Oliva was born in the North Beach area of San Francisco. Both are 70 years old.

Oliva worked for the Bank of America when it first opened at Powell and Market Streets in San Francisco, then worked for U.S. Steel Co. for 16 years. Mrs. Oliva worked for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. for 15 years.

Then they opened a small restaurant, Dee's Cafe, in the Glen Park area of San Francisco, and "completely retired" two years ago. They have lived in Marin Valley for three years.

The restaurant was named after Oliva's nickname for his wife, which comes from the song, "It All Depends on You," which he sang to her when they first met. He also sang it to her at the golden wedding anniversary party.

The couple's four children are Stanley Oliva of Greenbrae, Mrs. Al Guidi of Fairfax, John Oliva of Lucas Valley and Vernon Oliva of Fremont. They also have nine grandchildren and expect to be great-grandparents in October.

Mrs. Oliva loves to cook and bake and plays bingo every Friday night while her husband plays pool at the recreation club, and they both like to garden.

At the surprise party, the Oliva's sons' wives and their daughters prepared all the food for the 150 guests. The Olivas said the minister of their church, the Rev. Chuck Bowman, said a beautiful prayer for them.

They didn't get to bed until 5 a.m. Sunday morning and then went on to church at 10 a.m.

How To Prevent Varicose Veins

Varicose veins can be prevented to a certain extent by any regular light exercising such as swimming, cycling, walking, dancing or golf, all of which help maintain muscle tone, says the California Medical Association.

Exercises such as weightlifting, though, increases the intra-abdominal pressure and may aggravate any tendency towards varicosities.

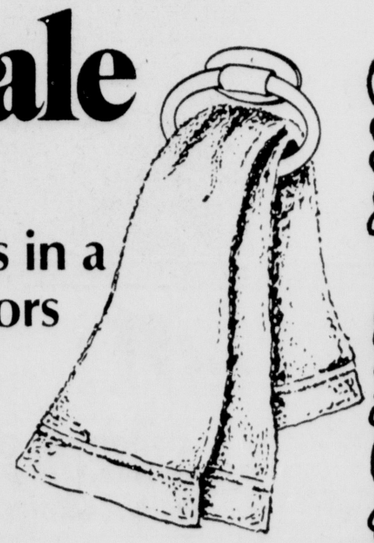

Tight circular garters, binding girdles and any other garment that interferes with circulation in the legs should be avoided.

PATRICIA WIESE, superintending ranger of Mount Tamalpais State Park, (second from right) uses a state park publication to show (from left) Paul Stangel, 6, of Pacifica, John Levenhager, 8, and Kristin Levenhagen, 6, of Tiburon, how to identify a redwood tree. Kristin wears the ranger's uniform hat, which has been on the heads of hundreds of children. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

How Come Wealthy Criminals Go Free, Poor Ones To Jail?

DEAR HELEN:

The more I read about politicians' plea bargaining and the way juries are picked by sociologists who charge five-figure fees, the more I realize that laws are for the wealthy (or powerful) to break, and for the poor to be broken by.

In desperation, a young friend stole a battery and some tools so that he could fix up his car for transportation to a new job. He'd already tried borrowing the money and, of course, the company wouldn't give him an advance.

He went to jail, is now out on probation and can't get work because he's got a record.

Yet certain Washingtonians who have been found guilty of graft, perjury, cheating and otherwise ripping off the public and (or) lining their own pockets, go free with only a tap on the wrist: often with suspended sentences, fines that don't even dent their incomes, or maybe nothing at all.

Now it's revealed that if you, the accused, or organizations backing you, have the right kind of money (lots of it!) a team of experts can be hired to study your prospective jurors, put their findings on a computer, and come up with the 12 persons most likely to acquit — and it's all perfectly legal.

If my friend could have had a jury of his real peers, he'd probably be free today.

Had he been wealthy, that is. — WHERE'S JUSTICE?

DEAR W.J.:

Had your friend been wealthy, he wouldn't have stolen out of desperation, which doesn't answer your question, but brings up another injustice.

Yes, it's true, money often paves the road to freedom, and those who go to jail often pay double for their crimes — by discrimination afterwards.

How do we stop all this? Keep yelling, keep writing, keep stirring up the public conscience — and perhaps run for office, where you can help change laws firsthand. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The back of my hand to that "Chimp" male chauvinist who prefers "very feminine girls who stay home and wait for their men who they treat like kings." I hope he gets his wish — if anyone deserves to be "crowned," he does!

This is from a very feminine woman who treats her love as a king (though not always) because she loves him ... but who in return is loved, respected, and treated as a queen — at times — with five children, who can sit long enough? — S.N.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 63, have false teeth, weigh 250 pounds, and am deaf in one ear. That's me.

I am keeping company with a 71-year-old man and he has asked me to marry him. He's nice and also poor.

When my second husband died, he left quite a bit of money. Do you think this man is after my money? Or me? — DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL:

Maybe both ...

But you could find out in a hurry if you told this man you'd lost most of your money through poor investments. — H

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a thought for "Breathless" and other women like her: If you women love your husbands so little that their smoking turns you off completely, why not set the poor devils free and let them find wives who will love them for themselves?

Many would love to have husbands whose worst habit is tobacco! So give your smokers a break, you complaining gals, and offer them separate houses rather than just separate bedrooms. — LOVES MY SMOKER

There's Legal Way Out Of Bankruptcy

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

People about to declare bankruptcy owe it to themselves to look into Chapter XIII of the federal bankruptcy system as a possible way out of their private financial thicket.

Chapter XIII, also called the "wage-earner's plan," has been around since 1938. Under a federal court's protection, a family in debt can pay its way back to respectability and solvency without undergoing the humiliation and real losses of a straight bankruptcy.

Chapter XIII offers direct relief from garnishment, wage or property attachment, and collection-agency harassment; it also dispenses with most service charges, late payment penalties, collection fees and interest. This results in a much-needed, and possibly substantial, saving.

To see how Chapter XIII works, let's take the case of a typical debtor, John Wagearner of Seattle, who owes $5,400 and and can pay $150 a month. His secured debts (i.e., those for which he has offered collateral) amount to $1,800 of the total.

All accounts draw interest at 12 per cent — the maximum

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

How Come Wealthy Criminals Go Free, Poor Ones To Jail?

DEAR HELEN:

The more I read about politicians' plea bargaining and the way juries are picked by sociologists who charge five-figure fees, the more I realize that laws are for the wealthy (or powerful) to break, and for the poor to be broken by.

In desperation, a young friend stole a battery and some tools so that he could fix up his car for transportation to a new job. He'd already tried borrowing the money and, of course, the company wouldn't give him an advance.

He went to jail, is now out on probation and can't get work because he's got a record.

Yet certain Washingtonians who have been found guilty of graft, perjury, cheating and otherwise ripping off the public and (or) lining their own pockets, go free with only a tap on the wrist: often with suspended sentences, fines that don't even dent their incomes, or maybe nothing at all.

Now it's revealed that if you, the accused, or organizations backing you, have the right kind of money (lots of it!) a team of experts can be hired to study your prospective jurors, put their findings on a computer, and come up with the 12 persons most likely to acquit — and it's all perfectly legal.

If my friend could have had a jury of his real peers, he'd probably be free today.

Had he been wealthy, that is. — WHERE'S JUSTICE?

DEAR W.J.:

Had your friend been wealthy, he wouldn't have stolen out of desperation, which doesn't answer your question, but brings up another injustice.

Yes, it's true, money often paves the road to freedom, and those who go to jail often pay double for their crimes — by discrimination afterwards.

How do we stop all this? Keep yelling, keep writing, keep stirring up the public conscience — and perhaps run for office, where you can help change laws firsthand. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The back of my hand to that "Chimp" male chauvinist who prefers "very feminine girls who stay home and wait for their men who they treat like kings." I hope he gets his wish — if anyone deserves to be "crowned," he does!

This is from a very feminine woman who treats her love as a king (though not always) because she loves him . . . but who in return is loved, respected, and treated as a queen — at times — with five children, who can sit long enough? — S.N.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 63, have false teeth, weigh 250 pounds, and am deaf in one ear. That's me.

I am keeping company with a 71-year-old man and he has asked me to marry him. He's nice and also poor.

When my second husband died, he left quite a bit of money. Do you think this man is after my money? Or me? — DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL:

Maybe both . . .

But you could find out in a hurry if you told this man you'd lost most of your money through poor investments. — H

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a thought for "Breathless" and other women like her: If you women love your husbands so little that their smoking turns you off completely, why not set the poor devils free and let them find wives who will love them for themselves?

Many would love to have husbands whose worst habit is tobacco! So give your smokers a break, you complaining gals, and offer them separate houses rather than just separate bedrooms. — LOVES MY SMOKER allowed for Washington. Straight interest on installments over three years would total $1,057.

If an attorney should be able to extend the loans directly with creditors, interest plus attorney fees would total about $1,500 or an additional $42 a month. Another program, Consumer Credit Counseling Service, could administer a voluntary repayment plan for $100, plus the $1,057 interest.

BUT WITH A Chapter XIII case the only extra expenses you will have are the attorney's fee of $250, an 11 per cent administration fee of $594, and interest on the secured debts only of $216; total $1,060 — a saving of almost $350 over the CCCS plan.

In Chapter XIII proceedings the debtor and his attorney work out a plant that including the following:

A detailed listing of the kind and amount of debts owed.

Total income available. After deducting a living allowance out of the debtor's income, the remaining cash is used to pay debts.

Decisions on whether some goods bought on installment might be returned to reduce debt load.

An austere living budget that details how the living allowance is to be spent.

After the debtor and attorney develop a workable plan that offers a fair probability of completion within three years, the attorney files the plan with the court along with a $15 filing fee. Together with the attorney, the court examines claims for legality.

A trustee, who is appointed by the court, receives cash from each paycheck according to the court-confirmed plan and distributes the cash among creditors. In most cases, secured creditors are paid first or on a 60/40 split with unsecured creditors. Court administration costs and the debtor's attorney's fees are paid from the collected funds, too.

IMMEDIATELY UPON conforimation of a plan, the court issues a restraining order that stops all collection activities. Creditors cannot contact the debtor, garnishee his wages, pick up his car on the street or press collection in any way.

A debtor under a confirmed plan cannot charge new debts; however, some buying on credit may be permitted with permission of the court. If the debtor's income would stop if a car broke down, for example, he will ordinarily be permitted to borrow money to repair the car. But no credit cards, no charge accounts and no cash loans without the court's permission in each instance.

Participation in a wage-earner's plan is entirely voluntary. If the debtor fails to pay into the trustee's fund, charges new purchases without the court's permission or otherwise violates the rules, the court cancels the plan. The debtor may then be thrown back to his creditors. Or, the attorney may take the case on to straight bankruptcy if no previous bankruptcy occurred within six years.

A debtor who successfully pursues a Chapter XIII plan is not a bankrupt. Learning to live on a strict budget can be a long-lasting benefit for families in money trouble.

Library Books Are Loaded With Sex-Role Stereotypes

By LINDA GREENBERG
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BOSTON — A few years ago, when feminists began to publicize the pervasive sex-role stereotyping in books for children, many of us on the fringes of the women's movement were jolted into awareness by a brief article in Woman's Day (March, 1971) entitled "Miss Muffet Must Go: A Mother Fights Back," by Marion Meade. The article included an abbreviated version of the booklist compiled by Feminists on Children Media.

In the picturebook section of our branch library, I began my search for books starring little girls and female animals, to widen the horizons of my daughter.

"Katy No-Pocket" (Houghton Mifflin) was one of the first of those we borrowed. We all loved Katy; her lively, poignant story by Emmy Payne and illustrations by H. A. (Curious George) Rey.

Then the insidiousness of Katy dawned on me. A pocketless female kangaroo is not just a kangaroo with an interesting problem, she is a malfunctioning mother. How she comes to function effectively is, of course, her story. Katy seeks advice from all the other mothers. Finally, one mother suggests to visit to the wise old owl.

Wise old owls, as everyone knows, are always male characters. So Katy is eventually pointed toward a solution to her dilemma by a man. That is, the best another female could do for her was to send her to a male. The owl tells her that pockets are plentiful in the city and dismisses her to go look for one there.

WHEN SHE arrives in the city, almost the first person she sees is a carpenter wearing a pocket-studded apron. Dazzled, Katy begs to know where she can buy such a garment. The chivalrous carpenter, howerver, doffs his apron without hesitation, empties its hammers and nails onto the pavement, and gallantly helps Katy to put it on.

The crowd which has gathered beams with delight as this kangaroo is transformed into a genuine, fully functioning mother. Not only has she achieved her maternal destiny now that she can offer her son a ride, but she has also become a supermother, able to carry in her smaller pockets all the baby animals in the neighborhood.

The message is plain: A mother's function is to be the best possible mother. If she has trouble fulfilling that function, she can turn to wiser more adaptable males for help. In other words, women are mothers and men are everything else.

After the shock of recognizing Katy as a potential threat to my daughter's sense of her own possibilities, my next step was to consult with a children's librarian. As a matter of fact, I consulted with three different children's librarians during a period of about one month.

They were all sympathetic with the object of my search, but it was clear from the results of their help that they had not yet come to recognize the extent of the negative image of girls and women projected in books for young children.

The librarian of the nearest branch library jubilantly announced one day, "Here's one about a girl who wins a baseball game." After reading Al Perkin's "Don and Donna Go to Bat" (Beginner Books), I realized that the librarian was doing just what I had done at first, simply looking for a girl at the center of the action. This approach is clearly not good enough.

HERE'S HOW Donna wins the baseball game: On the day of the big game her twin brother (who looks just like her, only with shorter hair) is taken ill. He sends Donna to the field with his equipment in case someone else wants to use it. She has trouble carrying the gear on her bike and decides to wear it for convenience sake.

As she approaches the field, Don's teammates mistake her for her brother and drag her off for her turn at bat. Hitting a home run is unmistakably lucky coincidence. When the truth of her identity is disclosed, Donna is not made a member of the team. She is allowed to become the "manager" instead. Which is to say, she is made the housekeeper for the boys, serving them their bats as well as their drinks of water. And this resolution is described as wholly satisfying to all concerned.

The last time I tried getting help from a librarian was at the main library in downtown Boston.

The young librarian was sympathetic and ready to help. She could think of a number of good books about girls.

Unfortunately, all she could readily lay her hands on was a tale about a duchess, mother of about 15 children, and supposedly an intellectual.

One day, the duchess decides to come down from her ivory tower and bake a cake. She gets too much yeast in the dough, so that the cake literally rises out of sight with the duchess riding atop the uncontrollable mass.

The action of the story is how to get the duchess down. Just picture a story about a father who just can't seem to figure out how to mow the lawn.

AN OCCASIONAL book about a nitwit female will not permanently damage a little girl's psyche or make a boy scorn his sister. Yet there is legitimate cause for parents to be concerned with sexism in books for preschool children.

We can make our children's librarians more conscious of what is potentially damaging in their collections. We can point out offensive stereotypes whenever we find them. We can ask for books about girls or for role-free books and make a point of reporting our opinions of them. We can donate booklists and even books.

Better still, we can pressure library officials to buy multiple copies of the best books, so that more than a handful of borrowers may come across them. We can even ask that the most offensive volumes be removed from the shelves.

Recommended is: "Sex-Role Socialization in Picture Books for Preschool Children" by Lenore J. Weitzman, available from KNOW, Inc., P.O. Box 86031, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15221, 70 cents.

MUSIC REVIEW

Brilliant Cello Concert At Inverness Festival

By WILBUR F. RUSSELL

The Inverness Music Festival added yet another rung to its towering ladder yesterday at the Marin Veteran's Memorial Auditorium with a concert by the Festival Orchestra featuring brilliant bay-area cellist, Laszlo Varga.

Due to Varga's delay in arrival, the repertoire was rearranged, and the concert opened with Aaron Copland's "Music for the Theater."

From the opening theme of this work, stated by the trumpet, admirably executed by Robert Elkjer, to the closing epilogue, the audience was taken on a nostalgic trip back to the 1920. Jazz rhythmns and blues melodies surfaced from time to time, and were woven into Copland's light-hearted figurations for the orchestra.

Heuwell Tricuit, bay area critic-composer, was represented by his Concerto No. 3 for Orchestra. Written as one in a set of six between 1966 and 1972, this is the smallest and shortest of the series, a "light work" written in memory of a long-time friend.

The Concerto began with a Debussy-like fragility, and an airiness of texture that was sensitively and skillfully presented by the orchestra, under the baton of Festival Director, Hugo Rinaldi.

The allegro movement opened with sound of pure silver, bells and triangles mingling with delicate percussion, and rhythmic subtleties.

Several in the cello section had wine bottles filled to varying degrees, upon which they blew as the work progressed, thus adding to the variety of sound. The entire work ended with a pianissimo. The composer was present to acknowledge a resounding ovation from the too-small audience attending.

Franz Schubert's Third Symphony, in D major, was the final number in the first half of the concert. It employs the same orchestral forces as his First Symphony, but is far shorter, and thus more concentrated. Given a sparkling by the orchestra, the work was a solid contribution to the afternoon.

A smaller string orchestra was on stage for Varga's appearance playing the Pieces en Concert for cello and orchestra by Francois Couperin, baroque French composer. These works are not concerti in the Italian sense of the word, but are conceived in a style more French than Italian.

Varga's mastery of the cello was evident from the first notes which he played, with a tone which was full-bodied, extremely well-modulated, sensitive in phrasing and nuance, and outstandingly human in quality.

The contemplative and serene nature of the prelude gave way to a Sicilienne in which the dynamic levels of the soloist were exquisitely complemented by the orchestra.

Varga was joined in a duet between cello and viola by James Carter, in the "Plainte."

The sensitive exchange between the two players was further heightened by the delicate tonal balance which both achieved. "Air de Diable," which closed the suite, gave Varga ample opportunity to display his virtuosity and emotional intensity.

The Cello Concerto No. 2., Opus 119, of Camille Saint-Saens, was the closing work on the program, a tour de force for the soloist. Varga's control was remarkable; his flawless intonation matching the arpeggiated figures which he tossed off with obvious relish.

Seldom does one hear the harmonics of the cello handled with such security and precision as was done here when the soloist ranged from the lower depths of the scale up into the violin register, yet without sacrificing the expressive intent of the melody. After a scintillating cadenza, the work came to a rich and satisfying conclusion.

A standing ovation by the audience recalled soloist and conductor, who shared the honors with the orchestra.

70% Of Drug Arrests Are For Marijuana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite wide assumptions that police agencies have been easing up on pot users, almost 70 per cent of all drug arrests last year were for marijuana, according to previously unpublished FBI figures.

The cost of those arrests in "wrecked lives" is "staggering," says the head of a group fighting for decriminalization of pot.

According to the FBI figures supplied by the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws, more than 400,000 persons were arrested on marijuana charges during 1973, an increase of more than 100,000 over the previous year and 66.9 per cent of all drug arrests.

Mansion Foes Gain A Friend

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The county of Sacramento has joined a lawsuit seeking to block construction of a proposed $1.4 million governor's mansion in suburban Carmichael.

The supervisors have ordered the county counsel to submit a brief in support of the suit, which was filed last week by a group of Carmichael homeowners. The suit contends an environmental impact report on the mansion was not properly prepared.

Supervisor Ted Sheedy said building the sprawling, ranch-style mansion at the Carmichael site along the American River would have a "significant adverse impact on the community."

'Summer Bodies' Exhibits Artists' Views Of Human Form

By ADA GARFINKEL

"Think cool" is the message of "Summer Bodies," a show of figure drawings by 10 Marin artists at the Rose-Bernardi Gallery in Sausalito.

Some of the exhibiting artists — who range in age from 25 to 75 — are nationally known. One or two are showing their works for the first time. Each approaches the male or female figure — many times the same model — with an individual style while using various media and techniques. The moods vary from romantic to erotic, from amusing to reportorial matter-of-factness.

Interest in drawing the human figure has had a strong revival in recent years. For some of the artists drawing is the main performance, for others drawing is, as photographer Michael Bry puts it, "a good discipline to train your reflexes and to see form."

All of the artists have at one time or another sat in on the Tuesday evening drawing sessions held in the studio shared by sculptors Tim Rose and Tyson Underwood. Here the atmosphere is strictly professional but informal with sketching sessions often preceded by a potluck supper shared by the model.

Many of the artists do quick sketches, never re-working them. Others do complete and lengthy poses. Sketched on drawing paper, newsprint, butcher paper and plastic board, or wet-mounted on chipboard, the unframed drawings are held in place with pushpins, extending the quality of freshness and spontaneity of the studio atmosphere.

The more flamboyant and picturesque the model, the more exotic the props — fans, feather boas, picture hats, garter belts, scarves and drapes — and the more voluptuous the model's volumes and contours, the greater is the verve and excitement in the drawings. This is much evident in Sally Clarke's pastel crayon drawings which express each part of the body in a different color, adding a sense of fluctuating motion.

This is the first show for architect-painter Gail Wong. Her figures, seen in complete room settings, are preliminary studies for her paintings.

Walt Kuhlman, chairman of the art department at Sonoma State College emphasizes the junoesque and ingenue appeal of his models with bits of erotic whimsy reminiscent of the naughtiness of Miro. Sculptor-poet Tyson Underwood creates an evanescent quality with soft pastels in his work.

Tim Rose emulates the thin wiry line of his mobile sculptures in a Rapidograph-pen drawing of a male nude repairing his motorcycle while posing. Michael Bry's pencil drawings outline the forms of the same model with a closely gathered "U"-shaped hatching.

One is reminded of Aubrey Beardsley's personages in the large kinetic drawings of Bea Bernardi, while Suzanne Gomberg invests her drawings with a sense of psychic imminence. And Leah Schwartz and Maggie Hazell-Rosen's charcoal drawings are portrait likenesses of thoughtful figures and represent lengthy poses.

This show will continue through Aug. 31 and may be seen Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. The gallery is located at 2631 Bridgeway in north Sausalito.

Capitol Gardener Feels Plants Respond To Care

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The man responsible for the 30,000 flowers which bloom annually around California's Capitol says he doubts talking to plants or showering them with classical and rock music really helps.

"Actually," says Clarence Bartlett, 52, supervising gardener in Capitol Park, "most people kill plants with too much love —including water."

When Bartlett talks about his successful "green thumb," which has been active for decades, he emphasizes the fundamentals of gardening.

"Basic good soil," Bartlett said, "light fertilizer and water when the plants need them. You can't do anything without good soil."

Bartlett was asked about his love for the flowers, the trees and the green lawns which surround the Capitol and Gov. Ronald Reagan's office.

"I guess it was born in me," said Bartlett, whose pipe occasionally billows a cloud of white smoke. "It is a real challenge. Sometimes nature wants things to die and you try and keep them alive."

On watering in Sacramento's 100-degree summer heat, Bartlett said, "If plants don't have enough water they will let you know, but if you give them too much water it may be too late before they can tell you."

But he said he is not the type of guy who will wheel his hi-fi set out in the park in the middle of the night and play music for the trees and flowers.

Bartlett, who has worked for the state for 21 years and as a gardener for four decades, said he "really doubts" if talking to plants and playing them music helps them grow and survive.

If Bartlett thought differently he would have to do a lot of talking. Each year, 30,000 flowers are planted around the Capitol, about 15,000 in the spring and another 15,000 in the fall.

In all, tnere are more than 40,000 specimens in the park representing about 4,200 varieties of trees, shrubs and flowers ranging from subarctic to tropical in origin.

Bartlett has a crew of eight men who take care of the plants. It costs taxpayers about $7,000 a year for seeds, fertilizer and supplies for the 40-acre park, which last year won an award from the Professional Grounds Management Society.

Asked to expound on why he doesn't believe overt affection towards plants helps them grow, Bartlett pointed to a cartoon on his office wall.

The cartoon showed a woman standing by her withering plant and seeking the advice of a gardener.

"Off hand," the caption said, "i would say your plant is dying because you are talking to it too much."

MILL VALLEY AUTHORS

New Book Lists 'Great Escapes'

By FRED STREBEIGH

For the reader, "The Great Escape" begins at the sign of the flying armchair.

The book — by two Mill Valley men, Min S. Yee and Donald K. Wright — is subtitled a "source book of delights and pleasures for the mind and body." It was published last month after a year in production at their office on Shoreline Highway.

Yee came up with the idea for a book of irresistible escapes, Wright did the design, and they gathered a group of interested escapists, including writer David Saltman of San Francisco.

Wright's emblem for the book — an Edwardian armchair being whisked away on a flying carpet — is intended to symbolize imaginative trips which are vicarious or personal, physical or mental, costly or free.

Its trans-Atlantic travel tips range from the way to rent the S.S. France for $90,000 a day (with 5,000 loaves of French bread gratis) to how to hitch free rides on two-seater planes being delivered to European customers.

It suggests uncommon inns — such as Frenchman's Cove in Jamaica, at $2,100 a week, double occupancy. For the less affluent, it recommends a hitchhiker's botanical gardens in Virginia and a crash pad directory which gives the addresses of hundreds of people who are willing to open their homes to the wanderer.

For those interested in covering new mental ground, it proposes a $30 session of "Rolfing" — massage so painful that it is thought to both recall and exorcise the primal traumas of childhood. Those with less money but similar goals are invited to dispel petty anxieties by trying something really dangerous, like traversing Niagara Falls on a tightrope. Also recommended as blueprints for adventurous living are "building atomic bombs," making obscene gestures to voodoo priests, or "French-kissing with cobras."

For the gourmet it offers an escape to "America's Greatest Hot Dog Stand" — Nathan's Famous on Coney Island. For the gourmand there is a recipe for a Bedouin wedding feast — roast camel stuffed with sheep, chickens, trout, and hard-boiled eggs, enough to serve 300 nomads.

In their office the other day — while the absent Wright was flying to Los Angeles to plug the book on the Johnny Carson Show — Yee and Saltman talked about the book and its uses.

Despite a resemblance in format to the whole Earth Catalog, Yee said "The Great Escape" differs in that it offers experiences rather than advertising products.

Far from being advertised, most escapes don't know they are listed.

On a recent stop at Coney Island, Yee said he showed the book to Nathan at his hot dog stand and "he'd never seen it. He said 'How come nobody told me about this — we can capitalize on this. Have a hot dog. Anytime you want a hot dog, you just call me.'"

Yee said he thinks of the work "as a book-magazine hybrid —somewhere there's a cross-fertilization of book elements and magazine elements."

That cross-breeding is evident in the staff's background.

Yee, 35, worked as a stringer for the New York Times and Time-Life in Asia and was a staff reporter for a Boston newspaper and Newsweek. He also wrote a book, "The Melancholy History of Soledad Prison," and served as managing editor of Ramparts for four issues before quitting in May 1973 to begin his great escape.

Saltman, 28, the book's most prolific writer dropped out of school at 17, he said, to work for ABC television news, then became a professional musician, worked in the Detroit bureau of the New York Times, and began contributing foreign travel articles to the Times at age 20.

He learned nine languages, wrote a book on North Africa, "The Marrakech Express", and joined Rolling Stone as a travel columnist before coming to "The Great Escape" last fall.

Designer Wright, Yee said, joined with Nicholas Charney to start Psychology Today, designed Intellectual Digest and the interior of the IBM pavilion at the Montreal Expo, then came to San Francisco to design all four sections of the short-lived Saturday Review. He also designed Saturday Review's San Francisco offices.

Their office is spinning with plans in proportion to their experience and talents. They have begun a sports book on the same large format as "The Great Escape", are doing a handbook for drivers suggested by Bantam Books and hoping to form a newspaper "Escapes" column which could become part of a sequel to the first volume. They also are planning a volume on "escapes into America" which will give more equal space to each region of the country than did the first "great escape" — which Yee feels has a "tilt toward California."

"I'm not a Californian," he said. "I've only lived here five years. But I think of myself as a California chauvinist — a Mill Valley Chauvinist.

"If I'd lived on the East Coast I don't think I could have come close to thinking of this book. Easterners don't have the energy — they're the kind who need a book like this."

Inmate Is Knifed At San Quentin

A San Quentin Prison inmate who left his cellblock yesterday was stabbed eight times by a small band of prisoners in the cellblock to which he had wandered.

Frank Hernandez, 25, was listed in fair and stable condition this morning at the prison hospital. He suffered wounds in his chest, stomach and back.

Three unidentified prisoners were locked up as suspects. No motive has been established, according to William D. Nyberg, prison information officer.

The knifing occurred on the ramp of the second tier in the north cellblock during a midafternon break.

"The man didn't belong in the block where he was stabbed," said Nyberg. "He lives in the south block. We don't know why he was there. It is unusual."

Hernandez is serving the second year of his six-months-to-life sentence for rape and robbery in Los Angeles County.

Earlier yesterday, guards fired a warning shot to get prisoners to line up for lunch instead of milling around outside the mess hall.

Some 1,100 prisoners moved around for about five minutes, ignoring guards' orders to form a line.

"I wouldn't consider it a protest," said Nyberg. "The line was moving more slowly than normal, and the men got a little unruly."

Council To Discuss Tiburon Dog Law

The Tiburon City Council will discuss revising its animal control ordinance to require leashing of all dogs today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Also on the agenda is the proposed capital improvements spending of about $850,000 as part of the city's 1974-75 budget. That includes $500,000 authorized in the city's 1972 open space bond election.

Candidate Calls For Secession

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rev. Raymond Broshears, Peace and Freedom Party nominee in the Fifth Congressional District, has called for California to secede from the U.S.

A statewide referendum on secession should be held, Broshears proposed. "The taxes which we Californians have to pay is unfair," he declared, "and the federal government gives us little in return.

"When Californians are sent off to fight the wars of the military-industrial complex, we have no say. The people of California deserve to control their own affairs," he argued.

Broshears added that everyone arrested for crimes involving sex and marijuana are political prisoners. Everyone now in jail custody for "these alleged crimes," he said, should be freed.

The district includes Marin.

Man Injured In Novato 2-Car Crash

A Contra Costa man was seriously injured in a two-car collision on Highway 101 at Atherton Avenue Saturday, Novato police have reported.

Philip Bonanno, 25, of Pittsburg, suffered a head injury and many cuts and bruises when the compact car in which he was riding rolled over several times and slammed into on oncoming car. He was in serious condition today, Marin General hospital spokesmen said.

Bonanno was a passenger in the car driven by Timothy Frederick Andreas, 23, of Santa Rosa. Witnesses told police that Andreas, northbound on 101, at 4:45 p.m. Saturday, abruptly changed lanes, where upon the car careened almost 100 feet, rolling into the path of a southbound car driven by Louis Joe Renfro, 60, of San Bruno.

Andreas's car was demolished. He was treated and released at Novato General Hospital, then booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony drunken driving and possession of marijuana. Investigators said they found a plastic bag of what appeared to be marijuana, and a number of burned marijuana cigarettes in the wrecked car.

The jail reported Andreas posted $5,000 bail and was released, to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday.

Both Renfro and his wife, Irene, 66, escaped with only minor injuries in the accident.

Inmate's Wife Found With Gun

An automatic pistol hidden in the pocket of a coat bound for a San Quentin inmate has resulted in the arrest of the inmate's wife.

A prison spokesman said the loaded weapon was found Saturday concealed in clothing that Mazie Davis, 32, was delivering to her husband, scheduled for release tomorrow.

Mrs. Davis was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of bringing a weapon into a prison and held in lieu of $50,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The spokesman said an investigation will be conducted into whether the minimum-security inmate arranged to have the gun delivered and whether his release will be affected.

Family Quarrel Ends With Shooting, Death

William Franklin Bonson, 48, of 210 Birch Drive, Cotati, died last night at Stanford Medical Center, apparently after shooting his wife and himself this weekend.

Cotati police said they received a telephone call at about 6 a.m. Saturday from the couple's daughter, and arrived at their house trailer to find the two badly wounded.

They said the couple apparently quarreled before Bonson shot his wife, Mary, 47, with a .38 caliber pistol. He then turned the weapon on himself, they said.

Bonson was wounded in the right side of his head and his wife in her upper spine.

The two were taken to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital, and the husband was transferred to Stanford after several house of emergency treatment.

Sausalito Doctor Found Dead In Van In Oakland

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The body of Dr. Mark B. Richer, 28, of Sausalito was found yesterday in his van parked in an industrial area of this city.

The coroner's office said there was no evidence of foul play, and that he apparently had been dead for at least three days. An autopsy was to be performed. He reportedly had been in good health.

His mother, Selma Richer of Ventnor, N.J., said her son's body will be returned sometime this week for burial in Atlantic City. Richer was unmarried, she reported.

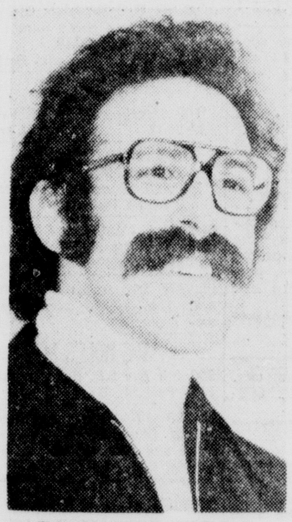

Richer attracted attention last December when he sent the American Medical Association a six-page document denouncing the medical profession for ignoring "the arts of healing, fundamental food principles, herbs, aerobics, yoga, meditation, consciousness, preventive medicine and psychiatry." He got a reply objecting that he was asking the AMA "to embrace concepts that are quite alien to its current philosophies and practices."

Richer's own response was to form the American Health Association, which he said was a more organic alternative to the AMA's "over-dependence on 19th century German science."

He also formed and was chairman of The American Intellectual Community to Free Alexander Solzenitsyn, and said his ambition was to win the Nobel Prize in literature, medicine or peace.

A specialist in nutrition and preventive medicine, Richer also formed a company called Consultants in Conscious Evolution. He formerly was a researcher at the Institute for Orthomolecular Medicine at Stanford University, and an instructor and clinical investigator at the University of California School of Public Health, Berkeley.

Richer was graduated from Rutgers University in New Jersey and got his medical degree from the State University of New York.

Climbing Banned

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The government has banned until further notice all mountain climbing in central and west Nepal and prohibited hiking in areas where militant Khampa tribesmen have been operating.

Final Ruling Due In Case Of Insanity

The fate of a San Rafael woman convicted of vehicular manslaughter, then found not guilty by reason of insanity, was to be decided today by Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court.

Menary Friday convicted Dorothy Jean Sample, 48, of felony manslaughter and misdemeanor counts of hit-and-run driving under the influence of drugs.

But he then declared Mrs. Sample not guilty due to insanity and scheduled for today a hearing on whether she is to be committed to a hospital.

In a hit-and-run spree in San Rafael July 2, Mrs. Sample's car rammed a pickup truck and drove it into a parked car, crushing 75-year-old Edward E. McElroy, who later died of his injuries.

Her car also was involved in another accident and rammed a police car in a blocks-long string of crashes, police said.

Ambulance Rates To Be Reviewed

Marin County Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center, will review a new ambulance service contract calling for a 40 per cent jump in rates.

The contract is proposed for Bay Cities Ambulance Co. and United Ambulance Service. Under the agreement, the county's cost would increase about $20,000 over last year's $48,000.

The increase is blamed on higher costs of equipment, repairs, gasoline, labor and training.

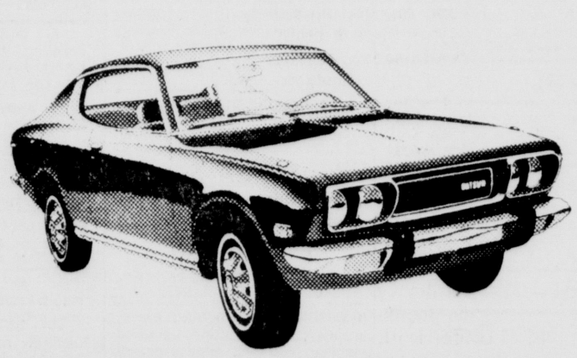

Marijuana Case To Higher Court

Andrew Michael Schultz and Ronald Steven Paul, both 25, were bound over Thursday following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Robert A. Smallman.

Police, tipped off by a neighbor, reportedly found some 200 pot plants growing in the rear yard of their house.

William Franklin Bonson, 48, of 210 Birch Drive, Cotati, died last night at Stanford Medical Center, apparently after shooting his wife and himself this weekend.

Cotati police said they received a telephone call at about 6 a.m. Saturday from the couple's daughter, and arrived at their house trailer to find the two badly wounded.

They said the couple apparently quarreled before Bonson shot his wife, Mary, 47, with a .38 caliber pistol. He then turned the weapon on himself, they said.

Bonson was wounded in the right side of his head and his wife in her upper spine.

The two were taken to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital, and the husband was transferred to Stanford after several house of emergency treatment.

Sausalito Doctor Found Dead In Van In Oakland

I-J Special Report

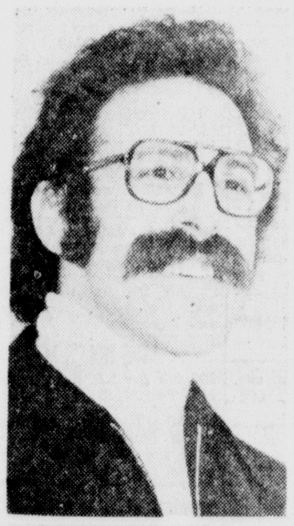

OAKLAND — The body of Dr. Mark B. Richer, 28, of Sausalito was found yesterday in his van parked in an industrial area of this city.

The coroner's office said there was no evidence of foul play, and that he apparently had been dead for at least three days. An autopsy was to be performed. He reportedly had been in good health.

His mother, Selma Richer of Ventnor, N.J., said her son's body will be returned sometime this week for burial in Atlantic City. Richer was unmarried, she reported.

Richer attracted attention last December when he sent the American Medical Association a six-page document denouncing the medical profession for ignoring "the arts of healing, fundamental food principles, herbs, aerobics, yoga, meditation, consciousness, preventive medicine and psychiatry." He got a reply objecting that he was asking the AMA "to embrace concepts that are quite alien to its current philosophies and practices."

Richer's own response was to form the American Health Association, which he said was a more organic alternative to the AMA's "over-dependence on 19th century German science."

He also formed and was chairman of The American Intellectual Community to Free Alexander Solzenitsyn, and said his ambition was to win the Nobel Prize in literature, medicine or peace.

A specialist in nutrition and preventive medicine, Richer also formed a company called Consultants in Conscious Evolution. He formerly was a researcher at the Institute for Orthomolecular Medicine at Stanford University, and an instructor and clinical investigator at the University of California School of Public Health, Berkeley.

Richer was graduated from Rutgers University in New Jersey and got his medical degree from the State University of New York.

Climbing Banned

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The government has banned until further notice all mountain climbing in central and west Nepal and prohibited hiking in areas where militant Khampa tribesmen have been operating.

Final Ruling Due In Case Of Insanity

The fate of a San Rafael woman convicted of vehicular manslaughter, then found not guilty by reason of insanity, was to be decided today by Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court.

Menary Friday convicted Dorothy Jean Sample, 48, of felony manslaughter and misdemeanor counts of hit-and-run driving under the influence of drugs.

But he then declared Mrs. Sample not guilty due to insanity and scheduled for today a hearing on whether she is to be committed to a hospital.

In a hit-and-run spree in San Rafael July 2, Mrs. Sample's car rammed a pickup truck and drove it into a parked car, crushing 75-year-old Edward E. McElroy, who later died of his injuries.

Her car also was involved in another accident and rammed a police car in a blocks-long string of crashes, police said.

Tests showed she had taken phenobarbitol, a tranquilizer, that day.

Ambulance Rates To Be Reviewed

Marin County Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center, will review a new ambulance service contract calling for a 40 per cent jump in rates.

The contract is proposed for Bay Cities Ambulance Co. and United Ambulance Service. Under the agreement, the county's cost would increase about $20,000 over last year's $48,000.

The increase is blamed on higher costs of equipment, repairs, gasoline, labor and training.

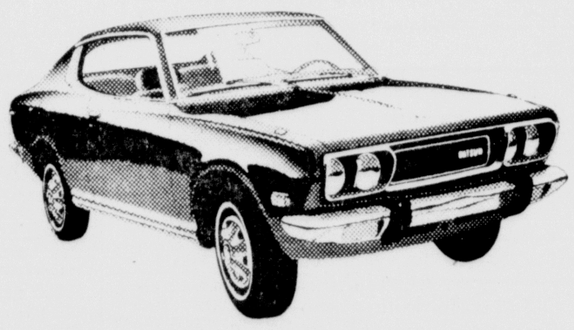

Marijuana Case To Higher Court

Two Mill Valley men will have to stand trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

Andrew Michael Schultz and Ronald Steven Paul, both 25, were bound over Thursday following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Robert A. Smallman.

Police, tipped off by a neighbor, reportedly found some 200 pot plants growing in the rear yard of their house.

Debate Asked On Cypriot War

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The opposition Likud bloc today called for an urgent parliamentary debate on the effectiveness of U.N. troops stationed on Cyprus, since U.N. forces police Israel's cease-fire lines with Egypt and Syria.

The call for a Knesset (parliament) debate on the Cypriot war came two days after the leader of the right-center Likud coalition, Menahem Begin, said the Turkish invasion of the island proved the futility of international guarantees.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

More Than Meat Has Protein America Should Remember

Americans are protein conscious — believing, perhaps that it is the bulwark of our health, strength and virility. As a result, meats such as beef, pork, veal and poultry provide 45 per cent of the protein, 40 per cent of the niacin, and 35 per cent of the iron in our diets. According to an editorial in the medical journal, Annals of Internal Medicine, we forget that fish, shellfish, dairy products (cheese, skim milk and eggs), beans, peas, cereals and peanut butter have protein values that approach those of beef, and they cost less."

With food prices going up, eating non-meat protein foods make it possible to meet nutrition requirements without going broke. There are many sources of protein, and when we consume a varied diet, we need not differentiate between that of animal and vegetable. Perhaps the spiraling beef prices are a blessing in disguise. Not only could we save money, but we could collect health dividends by changing some of our dietary practices.

NO ITEM in the nation's grocery basket has escaped inflation. Dr. George Christakis and Reva T. Frankle included in their editorial a chart that demonstrated the wide range of prices people pay for 20 grams of protein from meats and meat alternatives.

It costs 7 cents to obtain 20 grams of protein from one and one-quarter cups of dried beans; 24 cents to get the same 20 grams from three ounces of hamburger; 38 cents for two and one-half ounces of beefsteak, and 57 cents for eight pork sausage links. Five tablespoonsful of peanut butter (20 grams of protein) costs only 12 cents; three ounces of chicken (same protein content), 21 cents. Three ounces of processed American cheese costs 23 cents.

We are not advocating vegetarianism, but there is no harm in occasionally eating more vegetables and cereals as a substitute for meat. The American Heart Association should be happy because the average American would be consuming less foods that tend to raise the blood cholesterol level. As of now, 40 per cent of the calories consumed by Americans come from fats.

ON THE JOB AT 90

L. P. writes: I just celebrated my 90th birthday and have a part-time job that keeps me active and on my feet six hours a day. I sleep well and have a good appetite. Every morning my dog and I walk a mile. On my last visit to the doctor (two weeks ago), I was told not to eat egg yolks. In one column, you stated, "Eggs never killed anyone." What should I do?

REPLY

It would be presumptuous of me to tell a healthy, alert and active man of 90 to worry about egg yolk. Longevity alone has given you the right to do as you please.

TRUTH SERUM

H. W. writes: When a person has been given truth serum, must he take an antidote for it to wear off?

REPLY

No. Most truth serums are sedatives that wear off in 6 to 12 hours. Alcohol is also a good truth serum because many people talk freely when they have had too much of it.

Renaissance Faire Plans Announced

Crafts, stalls, costumes, theater and characters from the Elizabethan era will be featured at the eighth annual Renaissance Pleasure Faire, scheduled to open Aug. 24 in an oak forest at Black Point.

The fair will continue weekends through Sept. 28 and 29 and also will be open on Labor Day. Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Fourteen-foot giants, a 50-foot dragon and many other attractions will be featured in parades which will be staged every hour during the fair.

The fair, created and produced by Ron and Phyllis Patterson, has been held in Marin for seven years. It is based upon the faires, festivals and marketplaces of Medieval and Renaissance England and Europe.

Costumes common to the period are worn by many of those participating, and a free brochure on how to make Medieval and Renaissance costumes may be obtained by writing Faire Costumes, P.O. Box 18104, San Francisco, 94118.

Further creating the fair's atmosphere will be 200 craftsmen and artisans demonstrating their skills and selling their wares at rustic stalls.

Silver and pewter smiths, leather workers, and candlemakers, sculptors of ceramic and wood and of metal and stone, potters, jewelry and toy makers, glassblowers and workers of stained and leaded glass will be on hand.

Country and court dances popular in Elizabethan England, consorts of choral groups and musicians playing on replicas of ancient instruments, commedia dell'arte troupes, puppeteers and performances of folk plays can be seen continuously during the faire on various stages and upon a great Elizabethan stage.

In the Ale Gardens and among the winding lanes of crafts and food stalls, there will be wandering troubadors, minstrels, jesters, jugglers and acrobats.

Advance ticket information and group sales information may be obtained by writing to P.O. Box 18104, San Francisco 94118.

THE UNEXPLAINED

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

What Link Exists Between People And Their Photographs?

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

Does some strange link exist between a person and his photograph?

It sounds like voodoo, but a curious experiment suggests that such a link might actually exist.

The experiment was conducted by an unorthodox British scientist, George de la Warr, at his laboratories in Oxford, England, in August 1965.

De la Warr based the experiment on the idea that everything in the universe, living and non-living alike, radiates a form of energy. Radiations are given off even by a photograph, he said, and these provide a link between a person and his picture no matter how far removed from one another they might be.

On a visit I made to the de la Warr Laboratories, the scientist described to me the experiment with the photograph.

It was set up between de la Warr in Oxford and John Hay, a scientist in Fairfield, Conn. Mr. Hay had been sent by de la Warr a photograph of a 17-year-old boy named Rex. The boy himself, in Oxford, was hooked up to a sort of super-polygraph invented by de la Warr to monitor moment-by-moment changes in bodily functioning.

The aim of the experiment was to see if shining a bright light on the boy's photograpy in Connecticut coincided with involuntary physical changes in the boy 3,000 miles away.

Watches were synchronized by transatlantic telephone. Then the light was flashed on the boy's photograph in Connecticut for 20 minutes, starting exactly at 4 p.m. British Summer Time or 11 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Details of the experiment were then placed on record and an affidavit sworn before a notary public and filed in the state and county of New York.

The results of the experiment?

For the 20-minute period during which the light was directed at his photograph, the boy, on the other side of the Atlantic, showed dramatic involuntary physiological changes as recorded by de la Warr's superpolygraph. George de la Warr's interpretation of these results was: "The shining of the light on the boy's photo apparently triggered energy releases in his body thousands of miles distant."

The skeptic might object: "How do you know that the boy, unconsciously, didn't cause the physiological changes? The changes might have been the result of the power of suggestion."

However, the boy had been kept ignorant of the purpose of the experiment. Unless he was using ESP to find out what was going on (a possibility), it would appear that the involuntary physical changes were indeed correlated in some mysterious way with the light flashing on his photograph across the ocean.

And if this is true, voodoo may not quite be baloney after all . . .

Hartman Plays Role Like Himself

By JERRY BUCK

DAVID HARTMAN
Plays Lucas Tanner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Hartman plays a teacher in the fall series, "Lucas Tanner." In part he is playing himself.

A lot of Hartman has been worked into the role — his values, his attitudes, his enthusiasm, his sports background.

"With any actor, a lot of himself has to creep into a role," says Hartman, who played a doctor for four years on the now-defunct "The Bold Ones."

"I don't really want to be Lucas Tanner. I like being me. But you can't divorce an actor from the role."

"I think I'd like to be Tanner if I were a teacher."

As Hartman speaks, the enthusiasm rises like bubbles in champagne. The 39-year-old actor — who looks like a grown-up version of Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy — throws himself into his work.

"He's a man of tremendous enthusiasm and excitement about life in general," Hartman says of Tanner. "He's a fulfilled man, for the most part."

And Hartman?

"I love what I do," the 6-foot-5, 200-pound Hartman says.

The basic story of the NBC series is that Tanner is a former pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals and an ex-sports writer. After the death of his wife and son in an automobile accident, he moves to Webster Groves, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, to become a high school English teacher and coach. Some of the scenes will be shot in Webster Groves.

"Lucas Tanner' is a show about people," explains Hartman.

Young people just juxtaposed with adults. About kids and their growth. Tanner is not an idealized teacher in a classroom."

Arnett Blames Firing On Legal Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — His successful fight in Congress for retention of the legal services program for the poor and a community action program was the main reason for his abrupt ouster as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, says Alvin J. Arnett.

A lot of pressure for his firing, he said in an interview with UPI yesterday, came from both Democratic and Republican conservatives, who, like Nixon, wanted to end the already fizzling war on poverty.

"They packed me up and booted me out," Arnett said.

His firing was announced Tuesday to be effective July 31. But Thursday presidential adviser Dean Burch, in a crisply worded letter, ordered Arnett out of his office by the end of the day.

The official White House announcement conceded that he lobbied to keep alive the Community Action Program, which Nixon said in his 1975 budget should be eliminated along with OEO as an agency.

"The only program the President has said he will keep alive is the Economic Development Program," Arnett said, referring to a project which helps poverty pockets in the nation lure new industry and build a tax base.

"He wanted to kill legal services but he was finally forced into a compromise. Now my only hope for Community Action is that the Congress will approve the bill to put it over in HEW in such a way that he can't touch it."

Arnett said the free legal services program for the poor was a key factor in his firing.

Blast Toll In Decatur Is Now Four

DECATUR, Ill. (UPI) — The massive tank car explosion and fire which raged through this central Illinois city Friday has claimed two more lives.

A Norfolk and Western Railroad engineer and a switchman died yesterday in springfield Memorial Hospital, the latest victims of the holocaust, which now has claimed four lives and left at least 140 persons injured.

Three persons remained in critical condition and a fourth was in serious condition today at the Springfield Hospital Burns Unit.

Engineer Bobby W. Olinger, 33, Mexico, Ind., and switchman Clyde Rucker, 26, Mount Zion, Ill., were the latest fatalities. They had been in critical condition since they and six other railroad workers were caught in the blast and subsequent fires. Rucker was in the yard at the time of the accident while the others were in the bunkhouse.

A unit of the Illinois National Guard activated by Gov. Daniel Walker Friday to assist local police pulled out of the area Sunday, leaving homeowners and residents to scour the rubble for their belongings.

National Guard Adjutant Gen. Harold R. Patton said the city was returning to normal but that there was a great deal of cleaning up to do. He said there was no further danger of explosions.

Today is Monday, July 22, the 203rd day of 1974 with 162 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

American psychiatrist Karl Menninger was born July 22, 1893.

On this day in history:

In 1864, in the first battle of Atlanta, Confederate troops under Gen. John Hood were defeated by Gen. William Sherman's forces from the North.

In 1933, Wiley Post completed his first solo flight around the world in seven days, 18 hours and 45 minutes.

In 1972, President Richard Nixon chose Vice President Spiro Agnew as his running mate in thier re-election bid. They defeated Democrats George McGovern and Sargent Shriver in a record-smashing landslide.

In 1973, despite worldwide protests, France exploded a nuclear bomb in the South Pacific.

A thought for the day: Union Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman said, "War is cruel and you cannot refine it."

Lincoln's Body Theft Attempt Record Found

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Sangamon County Circuit Court clerk employees cleaning out old files for microfilming found a legal record dealing with two men who tried to steal Abraham Lincoln's body from Oak Ridge cemetery in 1876.

The aged legal record charged Terence Mullen, alias T. Durnan, and John Hughes, alias J. Smith, with "unlawfully, wickedly, knowingly and feloniously conspiring to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln and his casket, worth $75."

Judge Charles S. Zane sentenced them to a year in prison.

The present clerk of the court, Edward Ryan, offered the official record of the well-known incident to the Illinois state archives, where a spokesman said that although it may not shed any light in terms of historical facts, any document bearing on Lincoln has tremendous historical value.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

By Listening Properly, West Can Defeat The Heart Contract

Do you listen to your opponents and try to figure out what they mean by their bids? The average player doesn't bother; he had trouble enough figuring out what his partner means.

LEAD IS KEY

As in so many hands, the fate of today's hand depends on the opening lead. West can defeat the contract only if he listens to the opponents and correctly interprets their bids.

You know perfectly well what would happen if West went to sleep during the bidding and just woke up in time to lead. He'd choose an unbid suit, and naturally his opening lead would be the ten of clubs.

This gives South an easy time. He wins in dummy with the king of clubs and tries a trump finesse, losing to the king. Regardless of the continuation, South can draw trumps and knock out the ace of spades. He loses a trump, a spade and a diamond.

FIND WEAK SPOT

West can find the weak spot if he thinks about the bidding before he leads. South has bid spades, and North has rasied. It is very likely that the opponents have eight spades between them for this sequence of bids.

West counts his own spades and realizes that his partner probably has only two cards in the suit. If so, West can try to give his partner a spade ruff.

For this purpose West opens a low spade. He gets in with the king of hearts in time to cash the ace of spades and lead a third spade. East's ruff is the setting trick.

Well-Rested American League Pitchers Set For All-Star Game

EASY RUN — Oakland's Reggie Jackson scored easily in the seventh inning yesterday at Cleveland, as Indians' catcher Dave Duncan took the throw to the plate. (UPI Telephoto)

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gaylord Perry will head a well-rested American League pitching staff that will attempt to crack the National League's domination of the All-Star game Tuesday night.

Following a directive of new American League president Lee MacPhail, the A.L. managers didn't start any of the All-Star pitchers Sunday so they'll all be well-rested for the mid-summer classic.

By contrast, two of the National League pitchers, Buzz Capra and Steve Rogers, started Sunday although neither worked an entire game. Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers is expected to start against Perry.

The managers, Dick Williams of the American League and Yogi Berra of the National, make their choices official today.

Perry, the Cleveland Indian righthander who hasn't worked since last Thursday and has a 15-3 record, is likely to go the first three innings and the American League will have a well-rested staff behind them.

Jim Hunter of Oakland also hasn't worked since Thursday and Luis Tiant of Boston hasn't pitched since Saturday. Steve Busby of Kansas City, Mike Cuellar of Baltimore and Wilbur Wood of Chicago all worked Saturday.

The two relievers on the American League staff, John Hiller of Detroit and Rollie Fingers of Oakland, pitched Sunday but will have no trouble coming back in the late innings Tuesday.

MacPhail issued his directive because the National League has won 11 out of the last 12 games and has a 25-18-1 edge in the series.

MacPhail also had a meeting with Williams and stressed that he try to win the game instead of weakening the lineup by getting all the players in the game.

"We've agreed to concentrate on winning," said MacPhail, "the important thing is to keep the best team on the field. I told Dick that winning comes first, not keeping the players happy."

Even though Rogers and Capra worked Sunday, Berra still

THINGS LOOKING UP

Giants Shutout Montreal Twice

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Things are looking up for the young San Francisco Giants as they take the traditional mid-season break for the All-Star game.

Three pitchers—Jim Barr, John D'Acquisto and Elias Sosa —combined to pitch a doubleheader shutout against the Montreal Expos Sunday.

Barr tossed a six-hitter and faced only 33 batters in winning the opener 4-0.

Then the 22-year-old D'Acquisto, with ninth inning relief help from Sosa, won the nightcap 2-0.

"That's what we really needed," manager Wes Westrum said of the pitching performance, the first time the Giants have had two shutouts in a doubleheader since 1964.

D'Acquisto left the game with a 3-0 count on leadoff man Ron Fairly in the ninth inning because of blurred vision and a blister on his foot.

"I didn't want to take him out but why take a chance?" Westrum said. "D'Acquisto agreed with the decision.

"I wear contact lenses and the wind was getting dust in my eyes. I couldn't see the ball if it had been hit back at me."

Sosa completed the walk to Fairly and then gave up a double by Mike Jorgensen that bounced off the glove of first baseman Ed Goodson.

Sosa then earned his third save of the year by getting Barry Foote on a pop up to first base and pinch-hitter Boots Day on a soft line drive to shortstop.

Barr was aided by three double plays in the first game. He won his seventh game of the season.

Garry Maddox drove in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly and then accounted for the winning run in the second game with another sacrifice fly.

"That's when things are going right," he said. "I make two outs and drive in two runs."

Steve Rogers was the loser in the second game and Steve Renko in the opener.

The Giants, who have won five of their last six games, will scatter for the all-star break. Their only representative in the game at Pittsburgh is shortstop Chris Speier.

"It's a good time for a break," Westrum said. "We've got our pitching in good shape. We'll try to get up to .500 (the Giants are now 45-53) and "then go from there."

The Giants open a road trip with a twi-night doubleheader in Cincinnati Thursday.

A's Down Cleveland; Bando Hurt

By Combined AP & UPI

CLEVELAND — "Man for man — in experience — they're a better club than we are," Cleveland Indian Manager Ken Aspromonte said.

Aspromonte was praising the Oakland A's, who had just beaten his club 6-3 Sunday. The teams wound up splitting their four-game series.

"Everybody gives us a hard time," A's Manager Alvin Dark said. "Everybody is always up for us. That's why we're so good to watch."

Oakland third baseman Sal Bando aggravated a bruised ankle in Sunday's game and confirmed that he would not be able to play in Tuesday night's All Star game.

"I aggravated it today when I was used as a pinch hitter and had to run to first base," Bando said. "After I got to the bag I hobbled a bit, turned around and headed for the dugout trying not to limp, but I did a little."

Bando, who bruised his left ankle bone in the fourth inning of Saturday's game against the Indians, said the throbbing from the injury was unbearable.

In Sunday's game the A's came back from a 2-0 deficit.

Joe Rudi's fifth-inning homer made it 2-1 and a four-run seventh inning rally put the A's on top 5-2.

With the bases loaded and one out in the seventh inning, Reggie Jackson scored the tying run on a mental error by Indian catcher Dave Duncan.

Pat Bourque grounded to first baseman Tom McCraw, who stepped on first to retire the runner and then threw home to get Jackson. But Duncan simply stepped on the plate instead of tagging Jackson.

The play apparently shook Indian loser Jim Perry, 9-8, because Ted Kubiak followed with a two-run single, scoring Rudi and Gene Tenace. Kubiak scored on Bill North's single.

Strike Snag; NFL Owners Won't Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pro football strike entered its fourth week today, badly snagged on the owners' refusal to return to the bargaining table until the players' union modifies its demands.

Shortly after a four-hour Sunday session with federal mediator James Scearce, a spokesman for the owners said members of their Management Council bargaining unit "will not be available for further meetings unless and until the Players' Association comes forth with the proposals it promised and failed to submit for the last three days."

That deflated any optimism that had been built up because the two sides had met Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the deserted Labor Department building with Scearce.

Scearce scheduled a meeting for 2 p.m. EDT Monday but acknowledged that no progress had been made "toward consummating an agreement" to end the 22-day-old strike. The owners said they would have a representative available "when, as and if" any new proposals are submitted by the union.

At that point, their statement said, they would be available for further meetings with Scearce and the players after as the proposals were studied.

The new impasse came with the first exhibition between two NFL teams approaching—the Hall of Fame game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills at Canton, Ohio, Saturday. Player picket lines are being planned for the showcase contest where Vice President Gerald R. Ford is billed as one of the guests of honor.

By midweek, every club except the Minnesota Vikings will have opened pre-season camps and free agents. The NFL Players Association is expected to make a heavy pitch for the rookies and free agents to refuse to play.

Novato Post 540 Advances

Novato Post 540 American Legion team won its best of three series against Napa over the weekend and earned the right to represent District 5 in the Area 1 Tournament beginning Thursday in Redding.

Three Mikes got together to pace Novato's attack yesterday in the title clinching game at Novato High School, a 14-inning 3-2 victory. Mike Race scored the winning run in the top of the 14th, coming home on a throwing error by the Napa second baseman. Mike Robertson knocked in the first two Novato runs with a second inning double. And Mike Moroski was the winning pitcher.

In Saturday's two games, Novato won the first one, 5-2, but lost the second one, 11-4. Ken Ronshausen had six hits in seven at bats, including two doubles, for the day. Pitcher John Bulleri went the distance in the first game, hurling a three-hitter.

WOMEN'S VERSION

Sandra Haynie Wins U.S. Open

LA GRANGE, Ill. (UPI) — "Unbelievable," Sandra Haynie said after capturing the $40,000 U.S. Women's Open with a seven over par score of 295.

"The putter that failed me all week came through. I couldn't believe it. I've always played my poorest in the Open," she said.

It took birdies on the last two holes with stellar putting to carry her to the win.

The 31-year-old Dallas, Tex., golf pro "felt it was all over for me" when she double bogeyed the 16th hole at La Grange Country Club Sunday with a six which left her nine over par and trailing favorite JoAnne Carner by one stroke with two holes to play.

But she reckoned without considering her own putter and the fact that Mrs. Carner still had to play that dangerous 16th. Her playing partner, Sandra Spuzich, didn't. "She told me 'there's two birdies left out there for you' and she was right," Miss Haynie said.

On the next two holes came the "unbelievable." On the 17th, after Miss Spuzich hit a six iron past the pin on the 154-yard hole, Miss Haynie used a five iron and went far to the back of the green. "I don't know what I was thinking of," she said.

"It was 70 feet if it was an inch," she said. "But when the ball got rolling, I could see it had a chance, and I just turned my back and it went in. That putt won it for me."

While that putt was rolling, Mrs. Carner posted the same double bogey on the 16th, and Miss Haynie, though she didn't know it, moved ahead of both Mrs. Carner, the 1971 Open champion, and Carol Mann, the 1965 champion, with that 70-foot try.

She was eight over par, Miss Mann nine over and Mrs. Carner 10 over.

"I thought I needed a birdie on the 18th to tie," Miss Haynie said, "and I didn't know that I could win it until I got up to the green and saw the leader board. I had a putt 12 or 15 feet, and many things were going through my mind.

"I remembered I missed a six footer to lose the Colgate and I thought 'well, I got a chance to redeem myself.' I put probably one of the best strokes I hit all week on that putt, and it was just like the one on 17. Two feet from the hole, I knew it was going in."

When the ball dropped, Miss Haynie heisted her putter high and almost went into a dance. Only Mrs. Carner had a chance to tie, by shooting an eagle on 18. But she didn't.

The victory paid $6,073.75, boosting Miss Haynie's earnings this year to $51,009.59, fourth highest on the LPGA tour. It was her 32nd tournament win, her third this year, and it came after an erratic round for each of the leaders.

Only three of the 54 players on the final day were under par with Bonnie Bryant shooting a course record 67, tying the best open round ever, and moving her into a 14th place tie at 303 to earn $998.75. Beth Stone shot a 71, one under par, to tie Miss Mann for second place at 296, each earning $2,573.75. Kathy Whitworth also shot 71 to tie Mrs. Carner at 297 and earn $1,623.75 each.

Home Club Pro Wins B.C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — Only in a comic strip, where reality takes a backseat to the colorful world of make-believe, do you find the kind of ending that brings tears of joy to an entire community.

But there was nothing unreal about the setting that was created here Sunday when local boy Richie Karl found himself involved in a sudden-death playoff with golfing giant Bruce Crampton for the top prize in the $150,000 B.C. Open.

It was, as Karl was to describe it later, "a mortal man going up against someone who is almost immortal, at least off the record."

Crampton, 14 times a winner on the pro circuit with more than a million dollars in career earnings, against Karl, an assistant pro at the host En-Joie Golf Club whose earnings for the year amounted to $1,008.83.

If reality had prevailed, Crampton would have been a cinch. The 38-year-old Australian had put together a flawless round of five-under-par 66 to make up a six-stroke deficit in the space of nine holes, and he seemed to have everything going his way when the playoff started on the 15th hole.

But after Crampton tapped in a one-foot par putt on the first extra hole, Karl touched off a city-wide celebration when he rolled in a 35-foot putt for a birdie and the victory. The $30,000 first prize was more money than he had earned in four years on the tour as he became the first home club pro to win an event since Earl Stewart captured the 1961 Dallas Open. Crampton settled for $17,100.

Jarcik, Frink Win NorCal Golf Meet

PEBBLE BEACH — Terry Jarcik of San Rafael charged Arnold Palmer-style over the last eight holes at Spyglass Hill Friday to earn himself and partner Elwood Frink the 1974 Northern California Golf Association two man tournament championship.

Playing out of Marin County Club, Jarcik and Frink combined for a two round best ball score of 65-63-128 and became the first team to win the Division twice. They also won in 1971.

Jarcik, with an eight handicap, toured the front nine Friday in lackluster fashion with a 43. But he caught fire on the 11th hole and proceeded to birdie that plus the 14th, 16th and 17th enroute to a 75 for the day. He shot a 74 on Thursday.

Frink, a 17 handicapper, turned in a 92 on Thursday and a 94 Friday.

Runnersup were last year's winners, Phil Mastagni of Modesto and Manny Sagundas of Fresno, with a 131. Bill Bryant of Santa Teresa and Warren Kaufman of Pasa Tiempo finished third at 132.

Veronica Takes 440 At Reno

RENO — Veronica Venezia of the Terra Linda Track Club ran slower than her best time Saturday, but still good enough to win the 440 yard run and qualify for the National Junior Olympics.

Miss Venezia, 15, posted a 56.3, one tenth of a second slower than her Pacifica Association Amateur Athletic Union record set last week in Milbrae. The victory, in the region 13 qualifying for the Junior Olympics, gives her spot in the finals beginning Aug. 8 at the University of Nebraska.

Mary Hiatt, the other T.L. Track Club member to compete here, placed fourth in the 100 meter hurdles with a time of 17 seconds flat.

Little Champions

Hamilton Loma Verde crushed Twin Cities, 15-0, in a championship game of the Little League team tournament Saturday at Mary E. Silveira School in Marinwood.

Knickerbockers Lose Twin Bill

SANTA ROSA — Novato Knickerbockers lost a key doubleheader to first place Santa Rosa Saturday night, 8-4 and 5-2, at Doyle Field, in Sacramento Rural League Western Division play.

Tom Conklin knocked in all four Novato runs in the first game with a bases loaded double and a run-scoring single.

The losses put Novato two full games behind Santa Rosa.

Mathews Fired After Pirates Sweep Atlanta

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Pirates finally got a manager fired Sunday, and to the surprise of many, it wasn't their own.

Pittsburgh got off to such a bad start this season it appeared that either Danny Murtaugh's health or Joe Brown's patience soon would give out, but when the Pirates finally were involved in a manager's dismissal it was Atlanta's Eddie Mathews instead.

Mathews was fired minutes after the Pirates completed a four-game series sweep by beating the Braves 6-2.

Despite the sweep, Atlanta still has a better record than Pittsburgh. The Braves would be within a game of first place if they were in the East instead of the West Division — and judging by their reaction to Mathews' dismissal, the players weren't nearly as angered by the team's plight as the front office.

"Personally, I thought he did a hell of a job," said Hank Aaron. "I've seen a lot of managers fired but this one touched me especially hard."

Aaron hardly can be considered a fountain of objectivity since he and Mathews were teammates as players for a dozen years. The younger

EDDIE MATHEWS

Braves, however, felt just as strongly.

"I don't like it," said Darrell Evans. "I know that he made me a major leaguer."

Ralph Garr added:

"He didn't do the pitching, he didn't do the hitting, he didn't do the fielding, he just made out the lineup and tried to keep us in line and discipline us."

Atlanta, which had not been over the .500 mark for two and a half years, has a 50-49 record but is out of contention, 14 games behind first place Los Angeles in the NL West. Pittsburgh is 45-49 and only 3 ½ games behind first place Philadelphia in the East.

"I had no inkling," said Mathews, whose successor is expected to be either ex-Giants manager Clyde King or ex-St. Louis Browns catcher Clint Courtney. "I thought we were pretty well set about a month ago, but boy, what a difference a month makes."

Pittsburgh now has won eight straight games, its longest streak in two seasons, justifying the attitude of both Brown, the general manager, and Murtaugh, the manager, who refused to panic when the Pirates got off to a 9-20 start.

Richie Hebner hit a pair of homers and a pair of doubles and scored four runs to pace the Pirates' victory.

In other National League games, St. Louis routed Houston 9-1, Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 2-1, Cincinnati ripped Chicago 8-2 and San Diego defeated New York 7-3.

Cardinals 9 Astros 1

St. Louis, which ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Houston on Saturday, made it two straight behind the eight-hit pitching of Bob Forsch, making only his fourth major league start. Ken Reitz and Jose Cruz homered for the Cardinals.

Phillies 2 Dodgers 1

Jim Lonborg's five-hit pitching enabled the Phillies to stretch their lead in the East to three games. Philadelphia snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth when Dave Cash walked, was sacrificed to second by Larry Bowa and scored on a single by Willie Montanez.

Reds 8 Cubs 2

Home runs by Ken Griffey and Joe Morgan and a two-run double by Johnny Bench helped Don Gullett coast to his fifth straight victory and 12th in 18 decisions this year.

Padres 7 Mets 3

Willie McCovey drove in four runs for San Diego with two homers and Dave Winfield drove in the other three with a two-run single and a double.

has several well-rested pitchers to call on.

Messersmith, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Lynn McGlothlen of St. Louis haven't pitched since Thursday while Pittsburgh's Ken Brett and New York's Jon Matlack haven't worked since Friday. That means that Rogers and Capra, who pitched Sunday, are unlikely to see action.

Los Angeles relief specialist Mike Marshall worked Sunday, of course, but he likes to pitch everyday and he'll be ready.

There was a last minute change on the A.L. team because reserve third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland is injured. Don Money was named to replace him.

Chisox Slugger Allen Tunes Up For Star Game

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

American Leaguers who believe in the law of averages—and 99.4 per cent do—figure the man to bet on in Tuesday night's All-Star game with the National League is Dick Allen.

Their thinking is simply, "how long can you keep a good man down?" And they point to an intriguing set of statistics.

Would you believe that a star of Allen's stature hasn't made a hit in an All-Star game since 1967 and that his batting average for five All-Star appearances is .143? Allen's All-Star performance shows two hits in 14 at-bats, one homer and one RBI—both of the latter when he represented the National League in 1967.

But the Chicago White Sox' star is going into this game on what amounts to a season-long streak during which he has batted .302, hit 26 homers and driven in 70 runs. He leads the major leagues in homers and ranks second in the AL in RBI.

Allen hit his 26th homer, a two-run shot, and had two doubles Sunday when the White Sox stretched their winning streak to an AL season-high seven games by beating the Milwaukee Brewers, 6-2, in the first game of a double-header.

They carried a 3-0 lead into the ninth inning of the second game behind Stan Bahnsen's one-hit pitching but the Brewers rallied for five runs and won the game, 5-3, on designated hitter Deron Johnson's grand slam homer off reliever Terry Forster. The White Sox thus finished the day five games behind the first-place Oakland A's in the AL West.

The New York Yankees shaded the Kansas City Royals, 5-4, the California Angels beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-4, the Minnestoa Twins downed the Detroit Tigers, 10-7 and the Texas Rangers edge the Boston Red Sox 2-1 in other AL games.

Allen hit his two-run homer in the first inning and Jim Kaat pitched five-hit ball for 6 1-3 innings to win his 11th game. Forster earned his 15th save in the opener with 2 2-3 innings of one-hit pitching but strolled in with five gallons of gasoline when Manager Chuck Tanner asked him to put out the fire in the second game.

Yankees 5 Royals 4

All-Star outfielder Bobby Murcer's two-run, bases-filled double capped a three-run seventh inning rally which brought Yankee relief ace Sparky Lyle his sixth triumph. Amos Otis homered for the Royals.

Angels 6 Orioles 4

Mickey Rivers had four hits and scored the winning run on pinch-hitter Frank Robinson's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning as the Angels dealt the Orioles' Dave McNally his seventh loss against eight wins. Frank Tanana, a 13-game loser, earned his sixth win with 2 1-3 innings of two-hit relief.

Twins 10 Tigers 7

Eric Soderholm's three-homer climaxed a seven-run fourth inning and paved the way for Bert Blyleven to square his record at 10-10 for the Twins. Tom Burgmeier pitched the last four innings for the Twins, who dealt the Tigers their 13th loss in 15 games. Rod Carew had three hits for the Twins while Bill Freehan homered for the Tigers.

Rangers 2 Red Sox 1

Jeff Burroughs, leading the AL in RBIs with 73, drove in the winning run from second base with a two-out single in the seventh inning to give Texas its victory over Boston and cut the Red Sox' lead to a half game over Baltimore.

Running Sparkles For 49ers

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — "Jeez, I thought we did pretty well," said San Francisco 49ers Coach Dick Nolan, after witnessing the football team's first inkling of a running game in more than a season.

Despite a limited offense run by rookies, the 49ers scored two touchdowns on sustained ground drives in a scrimmage against the Dallas Cowboys Saturday.

Last season, the 49ers relied almost solely on the pass. This year, Nolan wants to balance the offense.

"If the other team knows you're going to pass on third and four, and they tee off on the quarterback, they're dictating to you," he said. "But if they have to worry about the run and the pass, you're dictating to them."

Nolan praised Keith Fahnhorst, a 6-foot-6, 235-pound tackle, who played tight end during the scrimmage and "blocked something fierce."

HOW'S THE WATER?

Crewman Doug McKeish was pulled onto the dock after he was hurtled into Narraganset Bay, R.I. from the deck of the U.S. 12-meter yacht Valiant yesterday. The yacht fell into the water when a cable broke during launching. Damage to the craft was minor, but she lost twice to Courageous in America's Cup trial races. (UPI Telephoto)

Italian Club Takes Two From Kelleher

Home runs went crashing over the fence at Tamalpais High School yesterday in the second game of a doubleheader between Kelleher Lumber and Italian Club. The Italians won both games, 5-0 and 16-5.

In that second game, Phil Bacigalupi and Marty Frey blasted grand slams and Jeff Vogel hit a pair of home runs, one a solo shot to lead off the game and the other a three-run blow.

Instead of power, the Italian Club used the pitching of Gene Frey to win a shutout in the first game, Frey striking out 11 and allowing five hits.

In other games yesterday, Rohnert Park split a twin bill with Morris Roofing, losing 3-0 and winning 6-1; Bank of Marin split with Villa Builders, winning 5-4 and losing 15-14; Holiday Magic won two from Annex Motors, 13-2 and 19-2, and Sebastopol shaded Toby's Truckers, 2-1.

Hawaiians Rout Detroit Wheels

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

HONOLULU — Norris Weese passed for two touchdowns and ran for another while pint-sized defensive back John Moseley returned a punt 66 yards to lead the Hawaiians to a 36-16 victory over the Detroit Wheels in a World Football League home opener before 10,080 fans Sunday.

Weese, a rookie quarterback from Mississippi, returned to the playing field where he was selected the most outstanding back in the Hula Bowl last January.

He opened the scoring with a 49-yard pass to wide receiver Tim Boyer. And after Detroit went ahead briefly on a 27-yard scoring pass from Bubba Wyche to Hubie Bryant, Weese went over from the one to give the Hawaiians a 14-8 halftime lead.

Wyche put the wheels in front of the third quarter by sneaking over from the one but Weese came back four minutes later to put the Hawaiians in front to stay on a 21-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Jerry Powell.

Baseball

PAWTUCKET, R.I. — Chuck Ross, a 22-year-old lefthander who had won only one game in 10 previous decisions, pitched a no-hit, 4-0 shutout Sunday for the Pawtucket Red Sox against Rochester in a seven-inning international league game.

ATLANTA — Hank Aaron goes to the All-Star game with major league baseball's longevity record.

When Aaron went one-for-six against Pittsburgh Saturday night, it marked his 3,034th ball game — surpassing the record of Ty Cobb for the most games played in a career.

PITTSBURGH — Don Money of the Milwaukee Brewers was named Sunday to replace third baseman Sal Bando on the American League All-Star squad for Tuesday night's classic.

Dick Williams, who's managing the All-Star squad, announced the selection after Bando said he could not play because of a severely bruised left ankle. Money, who's hitting .280, will replace Bando, who's hitting .266. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore is the starting third baseman in the game.

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Dodgers lefthander Tommy John, off to his best start ever before he suffered an elbow injury last week, is hopeful he can rejoin the team after a three-week layoff.

John, whose 13-3 record is the league's best, tore a liagment in his elbow while pitching against the Montreal Expos last Wednesday night.

He has been placed on the team's disabled list.

Gaters Beaten By Chicago Aces

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Aces won every match except the mixed doubles to defect the Golden Gaters 32-23 in World Team Tennis competition Sunday night.

The Aces broke a three-match losing streak with the victory, but remained in last place in the Gulf-Plains section of the WTT's Western Division with a 12-18 record. Chicago's Sue Stap won her women's singles match over Barbara Downs, 6-3, and the Aces' Butch Buchholz beat Dick Bohrnstedt, 7-6, by winning a 5-0 tiebreaker in men's singles.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Inheritance Plan Provides Dividends

Q. I have inherited close to $20,000 which I want to invest for income. Is it possible to invest so that I would receive around $1,600 annually but get dividends twice a month to supplement my monthly pension and Social Security checks? — A.M.

A. Yours is a tall order but not an impossible one. An $18,500 investment in six different issues will return $1,607 annually, an 8.7 per cent yield. Three of these six securities pay dividends in the middle of the month and the balance at the end or first. For payments beginning on Jan 15 and each subsequent quarter, buy 170 shares of Mountain States Telephone (all six issues are NYSE listed). Part of the giant Bell System, Mountain States serves an area of above-average population and business growth. U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty, paying dividends at the end of Jan., Apr., July and Oct., should push earnings from its property/casualty insurance business to $3.50 per share this year. Buy 110 shares.

To cover the months of Feb., May, Aug. and Nov., buy 120 Cleveland Electric and 100 shares of American Brands. The former serves a highly industrialized area of Ohio with power generated by coal and nuclear plants. This financially strong utility should report a good surge in 1974 net reflecting a rate increase granted in January. Incorporated in 1904, American Brands is one of those "blue ribbon" companies that has never shown a loss.

Earnings this year could benefit by as much as 90 cents a share from the recent boost in cigarette prices.

For dividends payable beginning March 15 and 31, buy 170 Washington Water Power and 140 Charter New York Corp. WWP-s primary reliance on hydroelectric generating plants will be supplemented in the years ahead with coal and nuclear plants. Charter is a holding company for Irving Trust, a prominent money center bank in New York City. This diversified portfolio of six stocks will pay you an average income of $67 twice monthly.

Executive Salaries Up 11.5%

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate chief executives did pretty well financially last year, raising their total compensation — made up of salaries, bonuses, deferred income and directors' fees — 11.5 per cent over the year before.

While in general it was a good year in terms of corporate profits also, some of the companies involved in a survey by Wytmar Co., a management counselor, didn't fare as well. One company reported a loss of $189 million.

Wytmar studied the compensation practices of 826 companies with a sales range of $50 million to more than 5 billion.

Chief executive officers, they found, were paid an average total compensation that ranged from $94,000 for companies with sales in the $50 million to $100 million range, to $481,000 for the largest companies.

Stock Trading Light As Market Declines

NEW YORK (UPI) — With little motivating news in the background, the stock market moved lower in light trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The only solid news relating to the market was the decision of First National Bank of Chicago to leave its prime rate — that charged key corporate customers — at 12 per cent.

Most other major banks made this decision last week. Analysts and investors now are watching to see if there is a letup in the interest rate rise. This is one reason volume has been low.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the most widely held stock in the nation, was the most active issue, up ⅛ at 43 ⅝ on 128,700 shares.

Some glamor issues took a beating. IBM lost 2 ¼, Johnson & Johnson 1 ⅝, Merck 1 ⅝ and Xerox 1. Dupont dropped 1 ¾, Eastman Kodak ¾.

Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Giant Yellowknife was the most active issue, off ⅝ at 18 ⅛ on 17,200 shares.

Canon Village & Tennis Club Office Slates Grand Opening

Canon Village & Tennis Club, now under construction west of Fairfax, is observing its grand opening this week on Glen Drive just off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, with a sales office and model homes open daily except Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Robert D. Marshall is owner and project developer on the former Getz property, containing 87 acres, of which 74 will be kept as open space. To be built are 22 condominium apartment type dwellings and 87 townhomes of one, two and three bedrooms. Prices begin at $39,950.

Jean N. Bell, representing Scott-McCall & Co., exclusive sales agents, said 44 home units are near completion and hopefully will be ready for occupancy in late fall. "Obviously, we must be a little vague as work is currently stopped by the carpenter's strike," said Bell.

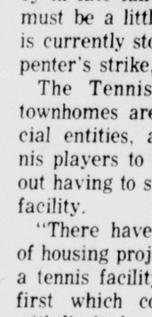

The Tennis Club and the townhomes are separate financial entities, allowing non-tennis players to buy homes without having to support the tennis facility.

"There have been a number of housing projects built around a tennis facility, but this is the first which combines a club with limited accessibility to the general public," said Marshall.

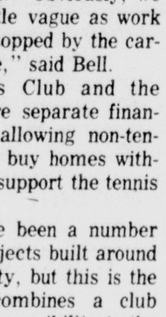

Barry MacKay, international tennis professional, is managing director of the Canon Tennis Club, which will include eight courts, teaching alleys, clubhouse and pool.

CHALMERS (JACK) HURT has been appointed manager of Bell Savings and Loan Association's San Rafael branch, succeeding Jane Collins, who went to another savings and loan firm.

Thomas W. Newman, president of Bell Savings in the San Mateo office, announced Hurt's appointment.

Hurt

McMath

A resident of Santa Rosa, Hurt joined Bell Savings and Loan in March and came to the San Rafael office in April. He is a graduate of Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Ill., and has been associated with the banking profession for 20 years. He is a member of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce, serving as co-chairman of the chamber's membership drive.

JAMES B. McMATH of San Rafael joined Wells Fargo Bank's International Division Investment Group, San Francisco, as vice president. He comes to Wells Fargo with 10 years of banking and financial experience.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., McMath was graduated from the University of Oklahoma.

SUNSHINE HAIR CO. II will be the new name of Sumiko's Beauty Salon in the Northgate area of San Rafael, when it changes hands on Aug. 1.

The new owner will be Paulette Thalhamer of Petaluma, who has been a beautician for 10 years, the last five years at Ogata's in San Rafael.

Sunshine Hair Co. II at 4140 Redwood Highway will be a beauty salon for both men and women. Miss Thalhamer said she will probably operate Tuesday through Saturday, plus two evenings per week. Her brother, George Thalhamer, is a partner with two others in Sunshine Hair Co. I barber shop located in Northgate Mall.

Miss Thalhamer bought the business from Sumiko La Boffa of Rohnert Park, who said she plans to devote time to her family after operating Sumiko's for more than two years.

THE COLLECTIVE antique shops at 316 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo (next to Tamalpais Theater) has been repainted and refurbished, with hanging plants now decorating the various shop areas.

The Collective has 36 different shops dealing in antiques and collectibles. Anne Casten of Mill Valley, who operates The Greenery in the back of The Collective, has decorated the entire shopping area with hanging baskets and plants. The Collective is operated by Anthony and Patricia Barbera of San Rafael.

BOB LINDSKOG Realtor at Fourth and Irwin Streets in San Rafael announced the addition to his staff of James (Pat) Bell of San Anselmo, who sold yachts in San Rafael for the past three years.

Bell came to Marin from New Zealand in 1946 and operated cocktail lounges in San Francisco and Santa Rosa for 17 years before he entered yacht sales. He is past commander of the Coast Guard Auxiliary in Marin, active in the U.S. Power Squadron in San Francisco, and a member of both the San Rafael and the Loch Lomond Yacht Clubs.
